Little Highbrow Birds
You Can't Hurry Eggs
Why Newspapers Die
Money is Frozen Power

By Arthur Brisbane

RAY LONG, who edits magazines, gave a dinner party on Thursday for Boris Pilniak, young Russian of great talent. Pilniak made what sounded like a fine speech in Russian.

Those that applauded violently included 20 of the highest-browed intellectuals, including Rupert Hughes, Irvin Cobb, Sinclair Lewis, Nobel prize winner; Theodore Dreiser, who writes what he thinks plainly; Montague Glass, who, to his eternal glory, invented Potash and Perlmutter, and an admiring chorus of correspondents, editors and assorted columnists, including Heywood Broun.

There was an interesting and childish discussion of the merits of capitalism, socialism, communism, and the possibility of convincing human beings that they really don't want to own property, in spite of the fact that they have been murdering each other to get it for more than a million years.

One young enthusiast said, "The youth of Russia will grow up, not knowing anything about money, not interested in it."

That sounds nice. But 15 years ago prohibitionists were telling you, "Our young people will grow up knowing nothing about whiskey, not interested in it."

Look at them now, each with a whiskey bottle hidden away in his or her clothing.

He will walk when he is ready to walk. Forcing will only make him bandy legged. Human beings will abandon grasping selfishness in due time. You cannot hurry them in their progress. You can't hatch a hen's egg in ten days. But the egg does hatch.

When the party died away, according to morning newspapers, between those that stayed late, there was discord, two highbrows forgetting Watts' beautiful lines:

"Birds in their little nests agree,
And 'tis a shameful sight
When children of one family
Fall out, and chide, and fight."

However, it didn't last long, nobody was hurt, the air was cleared.

The talented Pilniak, and Russian friends from the Amtorg, had gone home, and will not be able to tell Stalin, "We saw capitalistic American highbrows fighting."

The New York World is "dead as mutton," its former employes have received the last pay they will get. And soon a book will appear, "The End of the World," purporting to tell all about it.

There is nothing mysterious in that death. It was as natural as that a watch should stop when its mainspring is taken out.

The late Joseph Pulitzer said a great deal when he told his chief associate, S. S. Carvalho, long ago: "Carvalho, a newspaper is made by the heart of its owner."

Wealth can create anything, for it is frozen labor and frozen intelligence, waiting to be released.

Comment recently published in this column was intended to arouse interest in the wonderful land and people south of us.

The next paragraph really will arouse interest.

"Northeast of Mazatlan, in the Mexican state of Sinaloa, gold has been discovered in abnormal quantities."

Two men have brought out 1200 pounds of gold. Some prospectors have collected as much as five pounds of gold in a day, worth at least $2000! And veins are said to be so rich in some places that "the precious metal is cut off in hunks with a hunting knife.

Exaggeration always comes with a gold rush. But hundreds have started on this rush, 1600 claims have been filed. Nothing attracts like gold.

The Stock Exchange doesn't seem to know quite what it wants to do. Brokers' loans are increasing a little, but, in spite of that, call money on the Stock Exchange yesterday dropped to one per cent., lowest since June, 1915.

You can sympathize with long rows of great banks, their vaults full of money, the Federal Reserve ready to lend them any amount more, and nobody to borrow it, that is, nobody with collateral.

OXFORD BEATEN BY CAMBRIDGE

Putney-on-Thames, Eng., March 21 (AP)—The eight-oared shell from Cambridge University today defeated Oxford in their 83d annual boat race in the Thames before an estimated three-quarters of a million persons and with half the world listening in.

The race of the ancient rivalry, begun in 1829, now stands at 42 wins for Cambridge against 40 for Oxford, with the 1877 race a dead heat. It was the Light Blues eighth straight triumph.

The day, which had dawned bright and fair, had changed to a typical London winter afternoon at boat race time, with a strong wind kicking up the waters of the tideway and the skies overcast.

SHIP PILES ON REEF IN DENSE FOG

200 Passengers on Canadian Liner Monte'are Land Safely on Island Near Glasgow

Glasgow, Scotland, March 21 (AP)—Two hundred passengers were landed safely on Little Cambrae Island in the Firth of Clyde today after the Canadian Pacific liner Montclare, inward bound for Greenock, grounded on a hidden reef on the northwestern side of the island in a dense fog.

The passengers were taken off the liner on lifeboats and were picked up by tugs which landed them on the island. They will be taken to the mainland late tonight or early tomorrow morning.

The crew remained aboard the Montclare, which was lying at a 45 degree list and was believed to have been badly stove in.

The Montclare was flying in 30 feet of water. The liner Duchess of Athol, which was calling today at Greenock from Liverpool to collect Scottish passengers, had not arrived late today, and it was believed it might have gone to the assistance of the Montclare.

3 RESCUED IN CHELSEA FIRE

Rushing into a burning tenement at 125 Congress ave., Chelsea, early today, Policeman James McAleenan saved Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Shaffer and their baby daughter, Dorothy, and then fought the blaze single handed.

The family was asleep when the patrolman saw smoke coming from the windows of the second floor.

After arousing Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer from their sleep, Patrolman McAleenan wrapped them in blankets and aided them in reaching the street.

He also wrapped up their infant daughter and gave her to the mother before quitting the tenement.

When the occupants of the tenement were in safety, the patrolman hurried back into the burning house and turned fireman.

BANDIT PAIR HOLD UP, ROB MILTON BANK

Two armed men held up the Milton Savings Bank at 62 Adams st., Milton, today, and robbed it of $100, overlooking several thousand dollars more.

Mrs. Bertha Loring, cashier was the heroine of the holdup. In the face of three guns, one of the robbers being a "two-gun" man, she pressed a button to call the police.

The robbers, who were aided by a third man waiting at the wheel of an automobile, fled into Boston with their loot and abandoned the machine on Gibson st., Dorchester, near Fields Corner.

GIRL CLERKS FACED GUNS

The bank is situated in the Milton village or lower mills section, adjoining the Dorchester or Mills district of Boston.

Police later identified the holdup car as one stolen yesterday in the Back Bay from Rev. William L. Sludger, D. D., pastor of the Copley Methodist Episcopal Church, Exeter st.

The robbery was spectacular, as described by Mrs. Loring and Miss Alice L. Moulton, assistant treasurer. Except for the janitor in the basement, they were alone at the time.

Entering the front door at 10:45, the two-gunman levelled his weapons at the women behind the grilled partition. His companion, carrying one revolver, stepped on a chair and vaulted over the partition.

As he was doing so, Mrs. Loring reached under the counter and pressed a button which sounded in the Milton police station two miles away. She also pushed the money drawer shut.

Miss Moulton was seated at a table a few feet away, and she remained there under the persuasion of the guns.

"He just dropped beside me, opened the drawer without saying a word and scooped up a handful of bills," said Mrs. Loring. Then he climbed on the counter, vaulted back over the partition and was gone."

SOUNDS ALARM

Meanwhile the button pressed by the girl cashier had also sounded in the basement and Charles Meskill, the janitor, came up the stairs and opened the door, to find himself staring into a gun. Under orders, he put up his hands and remained in the doorway.

FOUR ELOPERS ARE ARRESTED

Worcester, March 21—Four youthful Worcester elopers were held by police of Raleigh, N. C., today, while local authorities were asked for information on the marital status of the quartet.

The four are Hazel Hodgeman, 16, of 66 Merrick st.; Alice Nicklin, 16, of 38 Newbury st.; Raymond Cummings, 19, of 81 Orange st., and Leo Frank, 20, of 47 Lamartine st.

Worcester authorities learned that the young elopers had been missing from their homes since March 13, but none of their parents had reported their disappearance to the police.

All of the parents denied knowledge of the couples being married, and there was no record of licenses issued to them at the City Hall.

"If my daughter is not married, I'm willing to send her carfare home," said Leon H. Hodgeman, father of Hazel. "But if she is, her husband must be prepared to support her."

George K. Nicklin, Mrs. Cora Cummings and Frank L. Frank, parents of the other three, professed themselves financially unable to provide transportation back to Worcester.

Timothy Healy Is Reported Very Ill

London, March 21 (AP)—A report from Dublin today stated that Timothy Healy, famous Irish statesman, was seriously ill at his home. He was the Irish Free State's first Governor-General in 1922.

PRISONER GOES WILD IN COURT

East Boston district court was scene of a wild battle today between a prisoner and two policemen and ended only when the prisoner was subdued and placed in a cell.

Andrew Maffei, 36, Havre st., East Boston, was arraigned before Judge Joseph H. Barnes charged with illegal possession of drugs and a hypodermic needle. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1700 for hearing on March 31.

Immediately following the setting of his bail, Maffei was placed in the dock, and without warning he became boisterous, singing and yelling at the top of his lungs.

Then, without warning, Maffei leaped at the officer and the battle began. Both men tumbled to the floor, and blows were rained on Daley from every direction. Three other prisoners in the dock cringed in terror.

Sergt. Frank E. Gilman, seeing Daley's plight, rushed to Daley's assistance and the prisoner was subdued.

Milton Schools Will Close Good Friday

The Milton school committee voted last night, unanimously, to close the schools of Milton on Good Friday, April 3, following a long controversy in which a petition was circulated and a public meeting in favor of closing was held at Town Hall.

FEDERAL AGENTS SEIZE TWO IN 'BOOTLEG' RADIO STATION

SECRET HUNT IN NEW BEDFORD ENDS IN RAID

Investigators Swoop Down on Outfit, Charging That It Guided Rum Ships

After months of hiding and waiting, "listening in" to every radio message going out and coming into New Bedford, U. S. Department of Justice men today swooped down upon a radio station alleged to be directing activities of rum-runners along the New England coast and arrested two men.

Harmon C. Winston of Austin st., New Bedford, headquarters for the radio station, WIBVC, according to the secret service men, was arrested as the operator of the station. He is charged with using a code he is not licensed to.

John Craig, 19, son of the woman from whom the apartment was rented, was taken into custody for aiding and abetting the operation of the station.

TRACE MESSAGES

With radio sets super-sensitive, the Department of Justice men traced down every message and were listening in carefully today when they picked up an alleged communication between WIBVC and contraband liquor vessels.

The Austin st. headquarters had been watched for three months by the secret operators, until the message was picked up today. The raid on the station followed.

According to the secret service men, the station is registered in the name of John L. Spaine. Winston, it is claimed, was operating a 2000-watt radio transmitting set when the agents of justice swooped down upon him.

This is the second alleged "bootleg" radio station that has been unearthed in the last six months in New Bedford. At that time secret operators took into custody Joseph Carvers for operating an unlicensed station.

NEW LONDON CLUE

Acting on the belief that an unlicensed radio station in the New London, Ct., district is communicating with rum runners, federal investigators have been working there for some days.

The search was started early this week when a boat approached Eastern Point and changed its course suddenly to the westward, actually landing at Black Point, Niantic. Police believe the boat was warned away by a radio message from the shore.

SURVIVORS IN NEW PERIL

pero was rushed to the scene last night with supplies, but it is not known whether it will be able to approach the Sagona.

Skippers also reported that a search of the area for 22 miles around the scene of the blast had not revealed a trace of any of the 26 men missing since the explosion on the Viking. It is now considered certain that they went down when the blast occurred.

Mountainous ice fields which hold the Sagona and the Viking injured in its inexorable grip crushed another sealer, it was learned today. The auxiliary schooner Sir William penetrated the edge of the heavy ice but was unable to plough through to clear water. Before it could extricate itself it became jammed in the ice and waterlogged.

SEALER LOST

The crew abandoned the ship in dories, set fire to the hulk, and took out for the steamer Eagle, two miles away. All were taken aboard the Eagle safely.

Those of the survivors unable to be transferred to the Sagona because of the hazardous ice trip from Horse Island, were being cared for by doctors from the ship. The island's food store has been replenished.

Hope for the rescue of any of the missing has been abandoned. Northerly gales, accompanied by snow and a thick mist, are making further search difficult.

Japanese Admiral to Visit U. S. Prison

Portsmouth, N. H., March 21 (INS)—The office of director of naval intelligence at Washington has notified Capt. David F. Boyd, acting commandant of Portsmouth Navy Yard, that Admiral K. Shimada, judge advocate of the imperial Japanese navy, will come here March 31 and make an inspection of the naval prison. The admiral is on a trip around the world.

Five Are Arrested in Strike Death

Paterson, N. J., March 21 (INS)—Five employes of the Urban Silk Co., on strike, were taken into custody today following the death of Max Urban, 39, president of the company, who died last night after being beaten.

WILKINS' SUB HEADS FOR NEW YORK

Craft Will Be Christened at Brooklyn Navy Yard Tuesday

Marcus Hook, Pa., March 21 (US)—The submarine Nautilus, in which Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins will attempt to cruise to the North Pole this summer, will set out today for Brooklyn navy yard. It is expected at the navy yard late Sunday or early Monday.

Marcus Hook, where the submarine for three days has been tied up at the terminal of the Texas company, is the first fueling station on a venturesome program that calls for stops at Halifax, London, Bergen and Tromsoe in Norway, Advent Bay in Spitzbergen and, if the venture is successful, some port in Alaska.

CEREMONY TUESDAY

The Nautilus, which has not yet received its name officially, will be christened Tuesday, at the Navy Yard, by Jean Jules Verne, grandson of the novelist, who first wrote of the ship that sailed "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

After the christening, the submarine will go to New London, for diving tests, and then to Provincetown, for speed trials. It will start for Halifax some time in April, and is due in London about the middle of May. A ten-day stop is planned for London, and then the submarine will begin its Arctic cruise.

DANENHOWER IN COMMAND

The Nautilus will carry 20,000 gallons of fuel oil, but Frank Shipman, superintendent of marine sales for the Texas company, said that less than half that amount had been put aboard during the three-day stop at Marcus Hook. He said that arrangements for additional fuel already had been made at other stops on the ship's schedule.

'BOSSY' GILLIS LOOKING FOR POLICE CHIEF

Asks Amesbury to Let Him Have the Man Who Rules There With Iron Hand

Amesbury, March 21—The fiery-minded, red-haired Mayor "Bossy" Gillis of Newburyport walked into the office of the chairman of the Amesbury Board of Selectmen, John E. Moughan, and asked for help.

"I want your chief of police, Chester L. Prescott, 'Bossy'" told the selectman. "Got to have him. Must have him. Newburyport is wide open, you know. The booze joints have got to be closed up. And your man can do it. Will ya' let me have him?"

The job of City Marshal is vacant in Newburyport, and according to the dynamic mayor, John P. Hays, acting city marshal, is "too old" for the job.

The Amesbury chief of police has not given his answer to Mayor Gillis, despite his praise of Prescott's Smedley Butler methods in controlling with iron-hand the disciplines of the town.

"Newburyport has been wide open for some time." "Bossy" admitted in an interview today. "We've got to have a city marshal who is open and above board, who can't be touched or reached by politics influences. I want a man who will put the fear of God into the police force and make them do their duty."

LAWYER NAMED IN DIVORCE

Worcester, March 21—That Jay Clark, Jr., a widely known Worcester lawyer, has been named by Attorney George A. Bourgeois of Atlantic City in a divorce action in chancery court, Trenton, N. J., was revealed today in probate court here during a hearing on the petition of Attorney Bourgeois' wife, Muriel N. of Northboro, for separate support.

Clark is a member of the law firm of Vaughan, Estey, Clark & Crotty, counsel for Mrs. Bourgeois in her separate support action and actively participated in today's proceedings in her behalf.

Attorney Clark was graduated from Harvard Law School in 1905. In addition to being successful at the bar he has starred in athletics. In 1920 he was captain of the American Olympic trapshooting team.

During today's hearing counsel for Atty. Bourgeois fought jurisdiction, arguing that Mrs. Bourgeois is a legal resident of New Jersey. Counsel for Atty. Bourgeois are Charles J. Skiadzion of Worcester and Katzman & Vahey of Boston.

The case was continued until Monday for further arguments. Mrs. Bourgeois is living on the extensive Wesson estate in Northboro which she is said to have purchased recently.

Hydraulic Project to Aid Unemployed

Lisbon, March 21 (AP)—The Supreme Economic Council, made up of cabinet members and appointed to deal with the economic difficulties of unemployment approved today a scheme of hydraulic works construction, to cover the next two years which will provide jobs for several thousand workers.

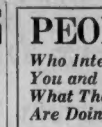
King of Siam and Jap Prince to See Hoover

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Members of the reigning houses of the only two independent monarchies in Eastern Asia—Japan and Siam—will visit Washington next month.



King of Siam

Already it has been announced that the King and Queen of Siam will dine at the executive mansion April 29.

Publication today of a tentative itinerary for Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan indicated they would reach Washington April 25. It is considered likely that they will pay their respects to the President and First Lady and be invited to a White House dinner.

Secretary Lamont Sees Business of U. S. Gaining

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Encouraged by new data placing the number of unemployed in January at 6,000,000, but showing more recent signs of business improvement, relief agencies plugged along today in their efforts to keep joblessness at a minimum.

Sec. Lamont

Secretary Lamont estimated that numbers of persons were out of work able to work and looking for work the first month of the year. He based his figure on reports issued by the census bureau.

"Information obtained from more than 13,000 manufacturing establishments by the bureau of labor statistics," he said, "reveals a gain of 1.4 per cent in the number of employes during February as compared with January."

Baby Joan Hoover Mistress of White House for Day

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr.

The tiny daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., was the sole member of the president's family occupying the stately mansion.

American "Good Fellows" Entertain Prince George

Buenos Aires, March 21—Prince George yesterday met the "Good Fellows" at the American Club who entertained his brother, the Prince of Wales, on the British heir's first visit to the Argentine.

Prince George

The younger prince spent an hour or so at the club eating properly introduced to a number of American cocktails. Members of the club did not hide their disappointment at the fact that the Prince of Wales did not accompany his brother. An invitation for him to do so was refused by the British embassy before the royal brothers arrived in Buenos Aires.

Opponents of College Football Hit by Zuppke

Philadelphia, March 21 — Bob Zuppke, head football coach at the University of Illinois, in an address here denounced the opponents of college football and those who charge it is over emphasized.

Bob Zuppke

"Those men who never played the game are always the ones who abolish it, or want it abolished," he declared. "We are going on with football in spite of what these 'indoor drabs' tell us. The hero urge is what makes the game. We would much rather have our boys worship a star halfback than Jesse James or Diamond Dick."

2 WIVES DYING IN SHOOTING

Lowell, March 21—No hope is held at St. Joseph Hospital today for Mrs. Magdeliene Papleacos and Mrs. Marie Fournier, shot yesterday by Mrs. Papleacos' husband, John, in what police believe to be a love triangle. Papleacos was found a suicide by police.

Both victims of the shooting were reported dying today. There has been no change in their condition since they were admitted to the hospital shortly after noon yesterday.

Papleacos, who had been out of work for some time, went to the home of Mrs. Fournier in Cabot st., police say, and shot her because of her refusal to run away with him. Mrs. Fournier told police of Papleacos' attentions to her.

His fled to this own home in Walker st. and shot his wife after another quarrel. Then, turning the gun upon himself, he committed suicide.

Police say Papleacos had been forcing his attentions upon Mrs. Fournier, mother of five small children, for some time. Her husband, Joseph Fournier, said he had become suspicious that Papleacos was annoying his wife.

PAROLE BOARD BLAMED IN RIOT

Joliet, Ill., March 21 (AP)—Unrest in the Illinois State Penitentiary, climaxed Wednesday by the million-dollar prison fire and riot today was ascribed as due to the practices of "the parole board and the parole board only," by Rev. George L. Whitmeyer, discharged prison chaplain, in testimony before a legislative committee investigating prison conditions.

Discrimination against poor convicts, attempts to force prospective pereolees to tell on partners in crimes, still outside the prison, as a condition of release, and dictation on paroles by the Cook County (Chicago) State's attorney's office were among the charges made by Whitmeyer.

"Well-dressed relatives of inmates get every consideration by the parole board. Inmates represented by lawyers and politicians also get consideration," the clergyman said, "but if the relatives of inmates who come here to plead are poorly dressed and look as though they amounted to little, they get little time from the board."

lice headquarters as soon as he got the signal from the bank, and as one officer after another called in, they were dispatched to the bank.

The siren was blowing as the robbers sped away in their car, through Pierce sq. and up Dorchester ave. toward Fields' Corner. The registration number was taken down by a man on the street but it was found the plates had been stolen last night from the automobile of Donald P. Stone of Audubon rd., Back Bay.

BANDIT AUTO FOUND

Scores of Milton and Dorchester people rushed to the bank when the outside gong alarm was sounded after the robbers left the place. The abandoned car was found by William A. Dowd of 5 Ridgewood st., Dorchester, an hour later. He notified the police.

One of the gunmen was described by Mrs. Loring and Miss Moulton as about five feet six inches, about 156 pounds, wearing a blue overcoat, dark brown soft hat and gray trousers; the other, about five feet eight, about 168 pounds, with a light overcoat and light cap.

Mrs. Loring lives at 37 Temple st., Dorchester, and Miss Moulton at 3 Butler st., Dorchester.

EARLY EASTER BOOMS SALES

New York, March 21 (AP)—The coming of Eastern early this year has seen milady shopping for her spring costume early and swelled the March sales of New York department stores.

Kenneth Collins, executive vice-president of R. H. Macy & Co., said the early Easter is "having a noticeable effect" on sales. He said affiliated stores in Toledo, Atlanta and Newark, N. J., all report an upturn in sales, begun late in February.

Similar reports were made by several other large department store stores. Figures on the New York department stores in February showed sales were only 5 per cent above the first month of this year.

The hopeful sign, according to the National Retail Dry Goods Association, is that manufacturing stocks probably have never been lower than they are now.

MRS PAPLEACOS JOHN PAPLEACOS MRS MAE FOURNIER

WHERE MURDEROUS TRAIL ENDED

This prosaic "three-decker" in Walker st., Lowell, was the scene of a double shooting in the murderous rampage of John Papleacos. Spurned by Mrs. Marie Fournier, Papleacos, who was frequently known as Andrews, shot her, went to his own home, shot his wife, Magdeliene, and then ended his life. Both women are near death at Lowell Hospital. Photo in inset at left is of Mrs. Papleacos. Center inset is photo of her husband.

WHERE CRAZED HUSBAND WENT ON RAMPAGE

Because she refused to run away with John Papleacos, Mrs. Marie Fournier was shot in her home in Lowell. Crowds of curious children gathered outside the house in Cabot st. when police rushed to the scene. While police were investigating, reports of a double shooting at the Papleacos home provided the answer to the mystery. Mrs. Fournier shown in inset, is dying. Her admirer died almost at once.

PASTORS SPLIT ON BIRTH CONTROL STAND

DR. CONRAD HITS VIEWS GIVEN BY COUNCIL

Secretary Paine of Greater Boston Federation Favors Use of Contraceptives

Prominent Boston Protestant clergymen were divided today on the question of supporting the committee on marriage and the home of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, favoring birth control through use of contraceptives.

Dr. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the Park St. Congregational Church, signified his opposition to the report of the committee, which was made in New York yesterday.

"I have just one thing to say," said Dr. Conrad, "and that is that I have not signed the report and do not intend to do so."

Leading those favoring the report was George L. Paine, secretary of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches, who declared himself to be entirely in favor of the report and the method.

SAYS TIME IS RIPE

He stated that it was time the church agreed with many doctors that something should be done, and that the use of contraceptives was the proper method.

"I agree with the Council," said Paine. "I think the opinions of the churches and ministers are coming to accept this method of procuring birth control.

"At the meeting of the great Anglican communion last summer, bishops from all over the world favored birth control, although they did not go as far as the council. I think it is about time the church realized as have many other people that doctors can interpret the moral laws and principles as much as the ministers of the church.

Another supporting this view is Dr. William L. Stidger, pastor of the Copley Methodist Church. Dr. Stidger said he could not make too emphatic the benefits to be derived from birth control, and lauded the council for its action.

"While I am not a member of the council," Dr. Stidger said, "I cannot praise it too much for its progressive step. This method of birth control is the only enlightened and kindly method known today, and I am heartily in accord with the report."

HIT BY DR. MORTON

Declaring he thought the method a poor one to advocate publicly, Rev. Richard K. Morton, pastor of the Community Church of Christ, Point of Pines, said he did not favor the report.

"I don't know where they get their confidence in their report," Rev. Dr. Morton said. "This particular method of approaching the subject always repels me, and I don't think it is the proper way to handle the situation.

"Of course, I don't know whether the committee had medical advice, but I don't think it is right.

"Good would come, of course, in limiting the size of families where financial conditions are not of the best, but I think this is a bad method to issue publicly to handle the question. I might be wrong, but I'm against the practice."

WILL $150,000,000 WENDEL FORTUNE BE THEIRS?

TRUNK GIVES UP SECRETS

Here's Edna Hayward and her brother Teddy, 21, the children of Mrs. Mabel Hayward of Wickford, R. I., who claims to be a granddaughter of John Gottlieb Wendel, Jr. In this trunk documents which will play an important part in the case were found.

OLD FAMILY HEIRLOOM

Edna Hayward, 24, of Wickford, R. I., is looking forward to the court fight which may bring her a share of the $150,000,000 left by the Wendel family. Edna is displaying an old violin, a family heirloom. This violin was owned by Mrs. Bertha Wendel Davis, Edna's grandmother. In the inset is shown Capt. Lawton, the man who has uncovered most of the evidence.

MORE EVIDENCE OF ELOPEMENT IS BARED

Counsel for Rhode Island Widow Says He Is Ready to Proceed With Case

By BERT FORD

Providence, R. I., March 21—Further documentary evidence, some of it found in an old trunk, was placed today in the hands of counsel for Mrs. Magel Hayward, Wickford widow, and her two children, claimants to the $150,000,000 estate left by the eccentric Wendel family of New York.

The trunk, which was originally owned by Hannah Holt, alleged bride of John Gottlieb Wendel, Jr., in a secret marriage 76 years ago, was opened and searched by Mrs. Hayward only recently after years of neglect.

"East Greenwich, N. Y.

"This is to certify that John Gottlieb Wendel of New York city and Hannah Holt of Chelsea, Vt., were joined in marriage by me on this date, July 10, 1855.

(Signed) "WILLIAM H. REID, "Justice of the Peace."

One of the weaknesses of the claim is that official town records were not kept in East Greenwich until 1856, and this certificate may be the only existing proof of the marriage, unless Reid's old books, if he kept any, recording the marriages he performed, can be found.

BELIEVES DATA TRUE.

Capt. Theodore Lawton, for whom Mrs. Hayward works as housekeeper, took the papers to Atty. William Moss of the law firm of Gardner, Moss & Haslam, who said:

"I am not disclosing all we have at this time, but don't mind saying that we have already a sufficient case to proceed. However, before going further I desire to interview Mrs. Hayward in person as soon as she has recovered from her illness.

"Capt. Lawton has sumbitted a record of the marriage of Mrs. Hayward's grandmother, Hannah Holt of Chelsea, Vt., to John Gottlieb Wendel, and a newspaper clipping telling of the death of John Wendel's wife and mentioning their daughter, Bertha.

"I have not the slightest doubt that the marriage record is genuine. It is written in ink, on paper that shows its age.

NOT TOO POOR TO MARRY

Eugene V. Brewster and Corliss Palmer were married in Mexico when he was rich, and this is how they appeared when he was poor, as they were remarried in Jim McCoomb's chambers in Los Angeles, fearing the Mexico marriage might not be legal in the United States. (I. N. R. photo.)

SHIP CEREMONY FOR HOOVER

U. S. S. Arizona, March 21 (AP)—President Hoover reviewed and inspected the crew of the warship Arizona today in an impressive ceremony which marked the third day of his vacation voyage to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The destroyer Dupont was to have arrived alongside during the review but it missed the course of the Arizona and was too far away to take part as the crew of the presidential vessel manned the rail and went through the formal ceremonies of review. The Dupont will relieve the destroyer Taylor as escort to the Arizona on the remainder of the voyage to Porto Rico, which will be reached tomorrow night.

LEWIS IS SILENT ON SLAPPING

Toledo, O., March 21 (INS)—"I don't care to say anything about it."

That was the response of Sinclair Lewis, Nobel prize winner, today to questions as to how he felt about his tiff with Theodore Dreiser, noted American novelist, at a recent banquet in New York.

Lewis, who arrived here today to deliver a lecture at a Toledo book club, said he had decided to make no comments on the Dreiser affair, which ended with Lewis receiving two slaps on the face from Dreiser's hand.

He spoke highly of Dreiser as a writer.

PUTTING BOSTON'S EMBLEM ON THE PEAK

MAYOR CURLEY GREETS LINER

The City of Boston through Mayor James M. Curley today officially recognized the visit of the steamship France, one of the largest of the French fleet, and the inauguration of French line service here.

Mayor Curley welcomed the liner and after fitting musical exercises to the presentation of the official flag of the city to the commander, G. Durosse, Miss Mary Curley, the mayor's daughter, did the honors in assisting the hoisting of the banner to the foremast head.

City and state officials, as well as the entire membership of the Port of Boston, and collector of customs, W. W. Larkin, attended the ceremonies. Coming from New York en route to Mediterranean ports, the France had on board 600 passengers. She picked up 100 more in Boston and sailed at noon with Vigo, Spain, her first port of call.

Because of the recognition by officials of the French Lines of the importance of Boston as a port of call, Mayor Curley returned the honors today by extending the civic and city hospitality.

WAGNER GIVES REPEAL PLAN

New York, March 21 (AP)—United States Senator Robert F. Wagner today declared repeal of the Eighteenth mendment inevitable. He charged President Hoover discarded the kernel of the Wickersham report to seize the chaff of minor recommendations, and proposed a plan.

"Let the states by amendments to their own constitutions undertake to conserve the single achievement of the prohibition era, namely the elimination of the pre-prohibition saloon; let the Federal government repeal the Eighteenth Amendment without substitute, without trimmings and without reserve," he told the National Democratic Forum.

"Prohibition," he said, "is dead, because it failed to correspond to the conscience of the people it was intended to govern.

Beet Sugar Men in Europe to Curtail

New York, March 21 (AP)—Curtailment of beet sugar planting in European countries beyond the requirements of the Chadbourne plan for stabilizing the world sugar market is indicated in reports received by sugar firms here.

B. W. Dyer & Co., sugar economists and brokers, said today that reports from observers in European countries indicate the decrease from last year will approximate 1,500,000 tons.

Boston Doctor Left $30,000 by Cotton

White Plains, N. Y., March 21 (AP)—The will of Joseph P. Cotton, undersecretary of state, who died in Baltimore, March 10, was filed for probate today. The value of the estate was not given. He left a life income from two-thirds of the residuary estate to his widow. A daughter, Isabel, of Bedford Hills, N. Y., and a son, Joseph P. Jr., student at Harvard, share equally in the income from the remaining third. Dr. Frederic Cotton, Boston surgeon, a brother, is left $30,000.

Lower Tariff Urged as Aid to Business

Philadelphia, March 21 (AP)—Reduction of the tariff to help revive business was urged today by Dr. Benjamin M. Anderson, Jr., economist of the Chase National Bank of New York in an address before a luncheon meeting of the Foreign Policy Association.

The United States can avoid a slow, painful and unnecessary process of readjustment by the restoration of its foreign market through the lowering of its tariff, Anderson said.

Tipperary Guard Is Shot to Death

Belfast, Northern Ireland, March 21 (AP)—John Curtin, superintendent of the Tipperary Civic Guards, was found dead outside his mother's residence last night shot through the heart. Curtin recently had participated in a widespread roundup of suspects.

Boston Bankers in $4,000,000 Loan

Bogota, Columbia, March 21 (AP)—The Colombian government announced receipt today of a $4,000,000 loan from United States banks, headed by the National City Bank of New York and the First National Bank of Boston. The government will apply the loan toward liquidation of the nation's floating debt.

High Wind Wrecks Barge at Pensacola

Pensacola, Fla., March 21 (INS)—Southeastern gales early today hurled a number of barges on the beach here, and wrought considerable havoc in the city. Trees were felled and a number of small buildings were blown over. The wind velocity was 48 miles an hour.

24 Wounded, Some Dying, in Dock Riot

Bucharest, Rumania, March 21 (AP)—Twenty-four longshoremen were injured today, several fatally, in a sanguinary fight in Galatz harbor. The disturbance grew out of charges that work had not been allotted equally in the unloading of two vessels.

SHARP DROP IN INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS

Washington, March 21 (AP)—Another sharp drop in income tax collections as compared with the same day last year was shown today in the treasury's statement for March 19, and further increased apprehension of treasury officials that the total income tax receipts this year would be below the 1400,000,000 mark.

The amount reported on March 19 totaled only $44,176,143 as compared with $70,652,867 last year.

The collection brought the total for the month to $226,123,881, more than $100,000,000 below that for the same number of Days in March, 1930, when they totaled $384,853,426.

On the same date a year ago, the treasury had a surplus of $22,370,706. Last Thursday it had a deficit of $628,702,172.

For the month of March to date the treasury had run $720,824,285 behind its expenditures, while last March for the same period it had collected $225,053,353 more than it had spent.

SPRING'S SMILE NOT FOR LONG

With a few fleecy clouds drifting across an otherwise benignant sky, spring today succeeded to the seasonal throne, vacated by winter at seven minutes past nine this morning, Boston time.

The weather for the inaugural day of the seasonal change began auspiciously.

A bright sun warmed Greater Boston, driving off the slight chill of early morning and turning the thoughts of early risers to Easter bonnets and lightweight clothing.

But from official forecasters came a threat to spring's complete supremacy. According to weather men, the mild temperatures and sunny skies may be banished shortly.

Increasing cloudiness and a drop in temperature tonight and tomorrow will presage the season's journey of storms of rain and snow, now blowing from the Canadian north.

Light rains are expected late tonight, with a possibility that tomorrow morning will see a light covering of snow. But winter will be shortlived and weather of unusual clemency for early spring is expected next week.

Groups of park department employes are working along the Riverway, Jamaica Plain, digging holes for dwarf cedars to be planted next week. At Jamaica Pond men are digging beds for lilacs.

A rock garden is in process at Franklin Park to add to the other gardens, and in the South End trees are being trimmed and dead trees are being removed.

Former Banker of Naugatuck Dead

Naugatuck, Ct., March 21 (AP)—word was received here today of the death in Union, N. J., of Philip Gunder, former cashier of the Naugatuck Bank & Trust Co. He left here four years ago.

Philip Gunder was concerned in the affairs of the bankrupt Bankers Capital Corporation, and in December, 1929, he was a defendant in a suit against the trustees of the Bankers Financial Trust, an affiliate of the Capital Corporation.

Winthrop Woman Wins Bridge Prize

New York, March 21 (INS)—Abraham E. Sperber of New York City today was announced winner of the $22,000 bridge contest conducted by Sidney S. Lenz, bridge champion, in the current issue of the magazine Judge. A round-trip ticket for two to France is his prize.

Other winners and their prizes included: Ruth T. Chase, Winthrop, Mass., radio; B. C. Nichols Cambridge, Mass., library desk.

New York, March 21 (AP)—On the stage of the theater where for more than a year he has played the role of Jehovah in "The Green Pastures," Richard B. Harrison, son of Negro slaves, who had escaped to Canada, will receive tomorrow night the Spingarn medal awarded each year for the outstanding achievement by a member of his race. The medal will be conferred at a public ceremony by Lieut.-Gov. Herbert H. Lehman.

U. S. Frames Canada Rum Killing Reply

Washington, March 21 (AP)—The State Department has forwarded to the treasury for suggestions the recent Canadian protest against the firing by coast guard vessel 145 on the Canadian rum-runner Josephine K, off New York. The suggestions were asked with a view to replying to the protest. Capt. William Cluett, master of the Josephine K, was killed in capturing the vessel.

Vatican Condemns Sexual Education

Vatican City, March 21 (AP)—Sexual education by teachers in schools was strongly condemned in a decree issued today by the Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office. The decree emphatically disapproves "the method of early sexual education," and also the proponents of eugenics. It bears out the declaration of the Pope's recent encyclicals on education and matrimony.

AIRSHIP PLOT CLUES TRACED

Cleveland, March 21 (AP)—Department of Justice agents, enlisting the aid of local authorities, today continued their investigation of the possibility of ramifications of the alleged plot of Harry F. Kassay to destroy the giant dirigible now under construction at Akron.

H. E. Hollis of the department's investigation bureau, declared before returning to Detroit last night he had information which "may lead to some interesting developments." Hollis, one of those who obtained the arrest of Kassay at Akron, said he had gathered "a great deal of information," but it would take four or five days to assemble it.

Hollis' statement came after agents revealed they became suspicious of Kassay when a Navy bombing plane was wrecked at San Diego, Cal., Sept. 3, killing Pilot W. Y. Ypharraguerre. Kassay, employed at the Great Lakes Aircraft Co. at the time the plane was built, was believed to have worked on it. He was discharged from the Cleveland plant for alleged communistic preachings.

Wales Loses Topcoat, Wings His Way in Lumberjack Garb

Buenos Aires, March 21 (AP)—The Prince of Wales today flew to Montevideo in one of a fleet of three hydro-airplanes of the Argentina navy.

Before his departure the Prince was added to the list of famous men who lost their overcoats. As his plane was about to take off the Prince was unable to find his topcoat. Unless there was an available coat aboard the plane the Prince made the journey to Montevideo in the chilly weather without a coat.

Prince George was meticulously dressed when he departed, but the Prince of Wales was clad in a gray suit of rough material resembling a lumberjack's garb.

U. S. Howitzers Are Moved by Airplane

Rio Hato, R. P., March 21 (AP)—Exactly an hour and 17 minutes after they had been loaded into airplanes at France Field, 80 miles away, four 75-millimetre howitzers roared into action on the plains of interior Panama yesterday.

Army officials said it was the first time field artillery ever had been moved by air. By the usual procedure, the transport have required five or six days.

NOBLE TIRES OF LIFE IN CELL

Lawrence, March 21—Alienists for the study of Russell Noble, 17-year-old accused hammer slayer of Mrs. E. C. Ellis, will be appointed at a conference in Essex County courthouse here Monday, when Atty. Richard J. McCormack, and Dist. Atty Hugh A. Cregg confer with Judge Lewis S. Cox. The alienists will make their study some time next week, and will report their findings to Cregg.

Atty. McCormack, Noble's counsel, said he would petition Judge Cox for the appointment of alienists to study Noble for the defense after the government completes its study of the accused youth.

Cregg intends to present the findings of the doctors to the May session of the grand jury when indictments will be sought against the Haverhill "good boy," charging him with first degree murder.

Yesterday marked the second day in succession in which no one visited Noble, and he stated that he found time hanging heavily on his hands.

"I'm fed up with reading," Noble said. "I wish something would happen to break up the monotony of sitting in this cell."

St. Louis, March 21 (AP)—No change was noted today in the condition of Ban Johnson, former president of the American League, who is seriously ill here.

CLOSED BANK OFFERS PLAN TO REOPEN

Plans to reopen the Industrial Bank & Trust Co. of Roxbury and Dorchester will be submitted by directors of the closed institution on Monday to Bank Commissioner Arthur Guy.

The bank commissioner announced today that he made an appointment today to meet a committee of the officers of the closed institution Monday morning. He said Treasurer Harry L. Loftus of the bank communicated with him today and requested the meeting.

Commissioner Guy made it clear that if the proposition of the officers of the bank meets with his approval he would permit reopening.

In the meantime he may appoint a liquidating agent today or Monday but this does not necessarily mean that the affairs of the bank will be liquidated.

It is understood officials of the bank have been endeavoring to raise $150,000 to assure its reopening.

To relieve the $800 depositors whose money is tied up by the closing, Bank Commissioner Guy is arranging with a representative of the Boston clearing house to secure loans on their bank books.

It is likely that under the plan being arranged by the bank commissioner and the clearing house officials, depositors may borrow up to 50 or 60 per cent of their deposits by presenting their bank books to any bank in the city.

As many small business men have been hard hit by the closing every effort is being made by Mr. Guy to complete the arrangement today or Monday.

Last Daughter of 1775 Soldier Dies

Rockland, March 21 (AP)—Mrs. Adelia B. Hatch, the last daughter of a Revolutionary war veteran in Massachusetts, died today. She was 84 years old and was born in Foxboro when her father, Thomas Clark, was 84. Mrs. Hatch was one of seven surviving real "daughters of the revolution" in the country.

Downey Must Die for Slaying of Wife

Catskill, N. Y., March 21 (US)—William S. Downey, ten surgeon of Kingston, N. Y., must die in the electric chair the week of May 10. Downey was convicted Tuesday on a charge of killing his estranged wife, Mrs. Loretta Downey.

GAR WOOD AIMS AT NEW SPEED BOAT MARK

Miami Beach, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Gar Wood, first man to speed through water faster than 100 miles an hour, today had a new goal of two miles a minute.

After driving his 12-cylindered Miss America IX across the measured course on Indian Creek here yesterday to claim an international record of 102.256 miles an hour for a nautical mile, Wood said he plans to build a boat capable of greater speed. In an earlier run Wood was clocked at 101.134 miles an hour over a statute mile in his bid for an American record.

"I'll buy engines capable of 4000 horsepower for the new boat," he said. "I may have to go to England to buy them, but I will do it if necessary."

Wood said he easily could get 120 miles an hour from a boat similar in construction to the Miss America IX, and powered by the larger engines.

SPEED RECORD BACK HOME

Gar Wood, veteran Detroit motorboat racer, roared over a measured mile in his Miss America IX at Miami, Fla., yesterday at a speed of 102.256 miles an hour to bring the speed record back to this country from England. He now aims for a speed of two miles a minute. The upper picture shows Wood at the wheel of his record-breaking boat, while at the bottom he is shown on a trial run. (International Newsreel

Brooklyn Judge Quits Under Fire

New York, March 21 (AP)—Magistrate Leo Healy, who sits in Brooklyn, resigned today. He explained he was in ill health. The legislative committee of the King County grand jurors association last night recommended that "appropriate action" should be taken in connection with the dismissal of an alleged "hit and run" driver by Magistrate Healy a week ago. The defendant was charged with reckless driving after his car was said to have struck a wagon, injuring two persons.

7% —AND THESE SIX REASONS— POINT TO AN INVESTMENT IN Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc.

7% CUMULATIVE PARTICIPATING CLASS A STOCK

Preferred as to Assets and Dividends

1—SECURITY

This investment represents a participating interest in twelve strong and profitable publishing enterprises of William Randolph Hearst, including ten great metropolitan dailies, the American Weekly Magazine and the American Newsprint Company. They serve large, growing key cities strategically located throughout the nation. Valuable holdings of downtown real estate, modern plants and printing equipment strengthen the investment quality of the issue.

2—YIELD

7% cumulative dividends, payable quarterly—and in addition, the right to participate with the common stock in additional dividends, as declared, up to an extra 3%.

3—STABILITY

The newspaper is not only an ingrained daily habit of America—but it is a valuable source of revenue through the need of merchandisers to advertise their products. It is today one of the great industries of America. During 1930, a year of generally quiet business conditions, the publishing enterprises comprising this group earned over $4 a share, available for dividends on all the Class A stock to be presently outstanding, against regular dividend requirements of $1.75 a share—a record which testifies to the stability of this investment under all conditions.

4—DIVERSIFICATION

Income of the newspapers is derived from both the Atlantic and the Pacific seaboards, from the industrial areas around the Great Lakes and from Western Pennsylvania—while the American Weekly Magazine has the greatest circulation of any periodical in the world, reaching weekly over 5½ million people scattered throughout the United States—truly nationwide diversification.

5—MARKETABILITY

Application will be made to list this stock on the New York Curb and the Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles Stock Exchanges.

6—TAXATION

Dividends received on this stock by individuals are not subject to normal Federal Income Tax.

Price $25 a Share

This stock may also be purchased on the payment plan—$5 down and $2 monthly per share. All payments earn 7% from the day received.

Where can you duplicate this nationally diversified investment in nidestablished, uninterruptedly profitable, growing enterprises that will return 7%—with security—and afford opportunity for a generous additional participation?

POLITICS

Notes and Gossip About People You Know

WIDE OPEN SPACES

Numerous appearances before legislative committees has served to establish Public Health Commissioner George H. Bigelow as the outstanding humorist at the State House. The question of preserving open spaces having come up, Dr. Bigelow remarked that the only open spaces in Massachusetts were above the ears.

SYMBOLS POPULAR

Elephants and donkeys, in bronze, symbols of the two major political parties, abound in the various offices in the Capitol building. These art objects, invariably part of inkstand sets, can be seen, among other places, in the governor's office and in the office of Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner.

WHEN HE AIDS FUND

Some statistician has figured out that, with the reduction from $10 to $3 made in registration fee for automobiles, when the two-cent gasoline tax was originally adopted, a motorist could go at least 6000 miles before he began to add any additional revenue to the highway fund.

NO LAW TO WED

In "killing" the bill which would have allowed married women to use their maiden names for political purposes, the upper branch of the Legislature concurred with the opinion expressed by Sen. James G Moran of Mansfield that there is no law which compels a woman to change from the single state.

ELY SAVES TIME

Departing from the custom of his predecessors, Gov. Ely does not confine himself to his own private office. Frequently when there are a large number of persons waiting to confer with him, the governor comes out and gives each one a chance to state his errand briefly. In this way he saves not only his own time but the time of the interviewer as well.

McGLUE HAPPY NOW

Charles H. McGlue, six times chairman of the Democratic State Committee, visiting the governor's office for the first time since the inauguration, says it's great to be no longer dependent on "Chinese" money. Since giving up the chairmanship, Charlie has been building up a law practice.

LANE OF FLORIDA

Daniel W. Lane, former president of the Boston City Council, and former state boxing commissioner, has notified the assessors' office he has taken up residence at Hollywood, Fla., and plans to have himself appointed permanent mayor.

BURROUGHS RETURNS

Harry E. Burroughs, founder of the Burroughs Newsboys' Foundation, visited Mayor Curley at City Hall yesterday. Mr. Burroughs has just returned from a trip to the Dutch West Indies. He told the mayor he found no trace of business depression in the islands.

WOULD BE SHERIFF

It is rumored about City Hall that "Jim" Purcell, former member of the Boston City Council would be a candidate for sheriff in 1932.

MAHONEY'S HIGHLIGHTS

John P. Mahoney, chief clerk of Mayor Curley's office, has had a most interesting career. He was a member of the state legislature from Charlestown in 1915 to 1918, inclusive. During the World War he was chief yeoman in charge of court martials at Admiral Sims' headquarters in London. In 1921 he was secretary to William Jennings Bryan at the Washington Naval Conference. He is a teacher of shorthand, typing, penmanship and commercial arithmetic, and is a member of the glee club of Bunker Hill Council, Knights of Columbus.

PURCELL AN ACTOR

Richard Purcell of the sewer division of the public works department has been chosen to be leading man of a dramatic production soon to be staged by the Ford Hall Forum Players.

PEDONTI TO ITALY

Francis T. Pedonti of Mayor Curley's office is contemplating a trip to Italy this summer, if he makes the journey he will be accompanied by A. F. Nardini, well-known sculptor.

GANDHI SITS IN ROYAL PARLEY

New Delhi, India, March 21 (AP)—Departing from his traditional attitude of non-cooperation with the government, Mahatma Gandhi today joined what might be termed a miniature round-table conference which is to pave the way for the second round-table conference in London soon.

Attired only in his loin cloth, which cost a shilling, Ghandi sat at a massive walnut table in the viceroy's sumptuous palace with blue-blooded Indian princes clad in resplendent silk and gold robes and wearing glistening jewels. At his right sat Viceroy Lord Irwin, who a year ago had him thrown in jail for his challenge to the British crown.

Before entering the meeting room Gandhi made it clear that he would not go to London for the second conference unless assured that India would be granted full self-government, and that the safeguards fixed by the first conference on finances and military matters would be radically lessened.

"It is either full self-government or nothing," Gandhi said.

Jobless Riot in Demand for Dole

Voliva to "Try" 3 Gum-Chewing Girls

Zion, Ill., March 21 (AP)—The gum chewers are trying to get even. It was learned today that three girls of Zion, where smoking is forbidden by law, were accused of smoking cigarettes by two others who had been reprimanded by their school principal for chewing gum. The three alleged smokers are to be called before Grand Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva.

300 Students Riot, Police Quell Them

Louvain, Belgium, March 21 (AP)—Three hundred students of the Catholic University here were dispersed by police last night after a demonstration, which ended in riotous disorder. The students met in a protest against an order forbidding demonstrations, in view of previous disorders with Flemish extremist students.

Art Treasures Lost as Castle Burns

Vienna, March 21 (AP)—The Castle Feistritz, containing the famous "Nurnberg Virgin," was almost entirely destroyed today. It is on the Asping railway and is the property of Maximilian Mauer, banker.

The covered riding arena of the castle, containing one of the most valuable collections of gothic tapestry and furniture in the world was reported destroyed.

Cecilian Guild to Have Supper Dance

The supper dance of the Cecilian Guild will be held at the Hotel Somerset on Friday, April 17, Mrs. Vincent J. Kelley of St. Paul st., Brookline, general chairman of the committee, announced today. Assisting her are Miss Josephine O'Connell, Mrs. John F. Fitzgerald, Jr., Mrs. John Shea, Miss Florence Hurley, Miss Esther McCafferty, Mrs. Walter J. Rooney and Miss Elizabeth Logan.

Priest Is Sent to Rome as "Plotter"

Buenos Aires, March 21 (AP)—Brother Gabriel Emilio Cuelo, was sent to Rome today by the Franciscan chapter here aboard the liner Conte Rosso under the accusation of being involved in subversive activities against the provisional government. An investigation was said to have proved that Cuelo abetted flight to Uruguay of Gens. Toranso, who headed a recently discovered revolt project.

No Trace Found of Missing U. S. Flier

Manila, March 21 (AP)—A search by the army and navy yielded no trace today of Glenn W. Brophy, Los Angeles aviator, missing since he left Macao, China, on a 600-mile flight to Manila three days ago. Virtually all hope has vanished for F. A. Diekhoff, representative of a New York business house, and William F. Scott of Manila, who have been missing on a flight since March 9.

DARK HOURS BESET THE THEATERS

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

IN THE INTEREST of community welfare, our downtown theaters might with commendable [illegible] put up a claim for drouth relief. Really, it ought to be done. The crop failure of the great Southwest appears to have set a fashion that has now laid greedy hands upon the once fertile regions bounded by Boylston and Tremont sts. Boston's legitimate drama has finally become submerged in its own private crop failure.

* * *

FOR NOW, as you must know, there is no major league drama whatever, nor will there be anything like a flesh and blood entertainment in the playhouses until two lean and hungry weeks have led the faithful through the last and severest days of Lent. For the first time since B. F. Keith, in a misty past, introduced one-reel trailers at the close of his vaudeville bill—and nobody ever got very much excited about them—the pesky cinema has taken practical possession of the town's amusement market. Even the new and magnificently appointed theater which carries the late Mr. Keith's name, has completely turned its back upon the spoken word, specializing only in the film extraordinary.

Nicholas Young

* * *

FOR THE UNREGENERATE playgoer, who still demands his drama in the original, there is but the Copley's excellent resident company to fall back upon. And also—incidentally—there is a scattering of vaudeville options at the picture palaces. With these slight reservations the drama—the legitimate drama—winds up its local business as completely as did Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown. This mouth-business is by no means entirely concerned with cereals, potatoes and alfalfa.

* * *

THE INEXORABLE rule of supply and demand has unmistakedly left its deadly imprint upon the season's effort to keep a good drama alive. But is that all? Probably not. You might as well place the blame on the radio, the film, the depression and the Republican party; or even upon the general Restlessness of the Younger Generation. In a measure it is all of these things—and yet none of them. The real trouble is not so much a wilful waste of good plays, but a rather woeful want of them. There is actually a famine of those essential raw products known as good playwrights, librettists, composers and royal families of the stage.

* * *

IN THE CASE of a playwright, nearly all our erstwhile champions—Pulitzer Prize winners included—have lately been found especially derelict. As to composers and librettists, you will find most of them in the movies. That was the plaint of Florenz Ziegfeld, while bravely struggling to whip "smiles" into shape for Broadway consumption. Even without the movies to sustain them, the contemporary words-and-music artistry are barren of distinction—beyond a few scattered works by George and Ira Gershwin, Rodgers and Hart and Jerome Kern. The empty shoes of Victor Herbert are still unfilled.

CONSTANCE CUMMINGS

AN EXCITING gangland drama gives Miss Cummings an opportunity to impress her talents upon the racketeering business as told in "The Last Parade," stirring film at RKO Keith's.

REGINALD DENNY AND MARY PICKFORD

MISS PICKFORD, as the saucy Kiki in a film of the same title, gives a few personal instructions to Mr. Denny, who serves as her willing manager. "Kiki" may be seen at Loew's State.

EDWINA BOOTH

OUT OF THE JUNGLE bounds Miss Booth, the white goddess of a tribe of unregenerate Africans in "Trader Horn." Here she appears in modern garb and with eyes that tease. (Majestic).

EASTER WEEK JUBILEE FOR THEATERS

At Easter every city and town from coast to coast will celebrate Players' and Patrons' Jubilee Week. Big shows in every vaudeville and picture house from coast to coast are planned for this period.

Players' and Patrons' Jubilee will be the combined effort of all motion picture and vaudeville theaters in America, with the cooperation of everyone in the industry from the executive offices down.

The celebration is under distinguished sponsorship, headed by Sam Katz, president of the Publix Theaters, and including Hiram S. Brown, president Radio-Keith-Orpheum; Hon. Will H. Hays, M. P. P. D. A.; Nicholas M. Schenck, president Loew's, Inc.; Harley L. Clarke, president Fox Theaters; Harry M. Warner, president Warner Brothers Theaters, and Pat Casey, treasurer N. V. A. fund.

Thirty-one zones have been mapped out, and each of these has been organized by a field committee composed of all the division managers of all motion picture and vaudeville interests in the territory.

James J. McGuinness of the Allied Theaters Association of Massachusetts is chairman of the general committee in charge of the New England zone.

From the magnitude of the organization and from the interest already displayed in theatrical circles, the 1931 Players and Patrons' Jubilee will eclipse any other previous celebration in the amusement field.

GENGHIS KHAN KIN THE HERO

"Storm Over Asia," most notable of the Russian films, opens at the Fine Arts tomorrow afternoon for its first Boston showing. Paris and London have hailed the film as epochal. Directed by the celebrated Pudovkin, famous for "The End of St. Petersburg" and "Mother," the picture is set in the vivid and beautiful landscape of a partly-civilized region of the globe. It tells the primitive and exciting story of Bair, a descendant of Genghis Khan, a young Mongol hero, who is captured, shot and left for dead in the series of adventures portrayed. There are included the first scenes ever photographed of the sacred festivals in the Lamaseries of Mongolia, the ritual observed to the minutest detail, the religious fervor mounted with every moment. "Storm Over Asia" is the third in the series of unusual art films shown under the new regime at the Fine Arts. The program will be continuous from 1 p. m.

Radio Philosopher Is Coming to Symphony Hall

Seth Parker is coming to Boston to greet his many radio friends in person. This famous radio figure, from way down east will present "An Evening With Seth Parker," in Symphony Hall, on Tuesday evening, March 31. This radio philosopher, known on week days as "Uncle Abe," in every day life Phillips H. Lord, a young man of 28, son of a minister, author, and graduate of Bowdoin College. He will bring with him the troupe of singers and speakers, whose songs and quaint dialogue, have built up a lovable character in the imagination of the radio public.

MARY PICKFORD THE STAR OF HILARITY FILM AT STATE

MARY PICKFORD, with an excellent squad of aides headed by Reginald Denny, goes in for pure fun on the screen at Loew's State. Her idea of "Kiki" is much different from the title role of that play as stage and silent sheet saw it years ago; but the offering is not a whit less diverting because of changes in script or concession made to censors or the "Hays code."

* * *

THE TALKING "KIKI" is farcial throughout. The story adhered well to the original; the central figure is a madcap gamin who has ambitions of being a great actress. The locale is Broadway, instead of Paris. There is a perfect mischstrom of merriment in Kiki's landing a job in the chorus and sprawling all around in the tangled marital affairs of the producer, whose divorced mate is the star of the musicale. The fiery Kiki was formerly an unmoral little lassie: but now she is quite innocent, though the scenarist hoaxes us to a degree in his permitting her to remain in her lover's apartment for days on end. But consistency in the movies is a jewel; and where the sportive faculty is so uproariously used, none will mind a toning down of the frailties of the original Kiki.

Reginald Denny

* * *

Director Sam Taylor adapted the comedy to the talents of Miss Pickford, which was clever on his part, for otherwise the star would have been totally miscast. As it is, Mr. Taylor has fashioned the cloth so well that the nation's sweetheart will be a joy forever to her admirers, and "Kiki" will be thoroughly delightful for the general run of fans to see. The lead set by the director in dedicating the picture to pending hilarity, not only gives Miss Pickford full opportunity to all and free expression of her eyebrow ability, but sets the pace for all the rest of the cast. It's not a great movie, but it is mighty amusing one.

Even better than the star is Reginald Denny as Kiki's beloved, Margaret Livingstone as Kiki's rival, Joseph Cawthorne, celebrated musical comedy star, in a mad wag character role, and other important parts are taken by Fred Walton, Phil Tead and Edwin Maxwell.

Kiki's bizarre ideas of costume and correct behavior contribute much hilarity and the feminine members of the play within a play are gorgeously gowned.

The settings, comprising among others, a theater stage and a magnificent private apartment, are lavishly done.

Conservatory Graduate Gives Recital Tonight

At the New England Conservatory of Music, in the George W. Brown Hall, tonight, Russell Lee, class of 1929, will give a piano recital. The program includes sonatas and preludes by Mozart, Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, Liszt, Chopin and Scarlatti.

Meditative Maid

ELEANOR BOARDMAN

MISS BOARDMAN bestows her talents upon "Great Meadow," current film at the Scollay.

LAUGHTER IS ABUNDANT

A gala triple feature all-laugh program is the one offered Loew's Orpheum "atrons this week. And a veritable laughfest the show proves to be, what with Buster Keaton and Charlotte Greenwood riotously cavorting on the screen in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath"; Mitchell and Durant, late "Vanities" comedians heading the vaudeville, and Laurel and Hardy in a hilarious new comedy.

Internationally famous as musical comedy and vaudeville acrobatic funsters, Mitchell and Durant lead the comedy on the stage. Their comedy antics are farcical and slapstick, and provoke the audience to rounds of laughter. Lane, Spiro and Chico offer a diverting combination of singing and dancing, enlivened by pleasing vocal interludes. Goss and Barrows present a unique and clever satirical sketch. Bob Anderson's pony, "Dixie," in an amazing exhibition of equine intelligence, and Barr and Davis in a song and dance twosome also contribute to the fun.

GAY PAREE THE SOURCE OF FILM FUN

"Fifty Million Frenchmen," gay and merry stage production here last year, now appears in talkie form, being the feature offered by the Washington St. Olympia and the Uptown. It is entirely in color, and in its cast are some of the folks playgoers will recall in the footlight show. The story deals with Parisian life and a group of tourists from America and two pussy-footing detectives, played by Olsen and Johnson, remembered for their antics in "Monkey Business" and in "Oh, Sailor Behave." They are known as Simon and Peter, and run the gamut from fake sleuths, baggage smashers, waiters and goofs-about-town to magicians.

William Gaxton, who was lead in the stage play, again has the role of the young millionaire from Manhattan, who wagers with his two American friends, played by John Halliday and Lester Crawford, that he can capture and wed a pretty girl he has spied as the wharf, and this within two weeks and without a simoleon in his jeans to do it with.

The pretty girl is bewitchingly played by Claudia Dell. Helen Broderick, who was also in the stage play, is amusing as a strong-minded American tourist, Carmelita Geraghty is a vivacious French girl. Nat Carr and Vera Gordon do an excellent bit of Jewish dialect. Charles Judels, always clever in character parts, does an expostulating Frenchman.

"Fifty Million Frenchmen" a whirlwind of skidding taxis, racing horses, twinkling toes, outlandish antics on the part of Simon and Peter, and wisecracking on the part of all present.

Vaudeville and Pictures on Program at Gayety

E. M. Loew at the Gayety will feature two photoplays, a stage band and five vaudeville acts beginning tomorrow. For Sunday only there will be Ronald Colman in "Raffles" and Harry Langdon in "Soldiers Plaything." Beginning Monday there will be Winnie Lightner in "The Life of the Party" and "White Hell of Pitzpalu," and the following acts: Alberts & Alberta, Edwards & Grant, Cooper & Watts in singing and comedy and Tenderhoe & Rec, acrobats and musicals.

POWELL FILM ON THE WAY

Four feature pictures are announced for the Metropolitan, beginning March 26, the entire quartet being late releases, some of which will be shown in Boston in advance of other cities. For the week of March 26, "Man of the World," with William Powell and Carole Lombard, is announced.

April 2, in connection with the personal appearance of Nick Lucas, comes also "The Connecticut Yankee." Will Rogers' latest starring vehicle. For the week of April 9 there is "City Streets," with Sylvia Sidney, Gary Cooper, Wynne Gibson, William Boyd and Paul Lukas.

On April 16 comes "Skippy," in which for the first time Jackie Coogan's younger brother, Robert, appears as a star. The younger Coogan is said to be better than was Jackie at the same age.

Park Program

At the top of the triple program at the Park is "The Flood," with Eleanor Boardman, Monte Blue, Frank Sheridan and David Newell. The second feature is Buck Jones in another motion picture, "The Avenger," with Dorothy Revier. Also, there is Chapter Three in the new serial, "Fingerprints." This chapter is entitled, "Toll of the Sea."

FILM CARDS AGAIN TURN UP AN ACE

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

"THE LAST PARADE," feature at RKO Keith's, is a fast moving underworld picture, with a new treatment of the theme. Into its length stream beautifully interwoven comedy and romance, mystery and suspense and thrills, so that at the finish one is thoroughly satisfied with Columbia's film fare. That company, turning out "The Criminal Code," a box office triumph, now sets forth another highspot film of superior merit.

* * *

THE FILM GETS a snappy start, sets up a strong and striking tempo in its first reel, which it maintains almost to the end, and fairly lunges its theme at us. Party and thrust as you will—but you won't, it is so smoothly and appealingly achieved—you could not get away from it. Quickly we get the idea—Jack Holt and Tom Moore, reporter and good-natured, easy-going policeman, friends at heart for all their gibes at one another; two good actors in two good roles. Their humor is natural; laughter is now gentle, now loud. The comedy flows like a gurgling brook. The reporter jokes the cop into enlisting; in a jiffy we find them both at the front. War stuff? Yes, but perfectly in place, and not overdone. Just enough of it, no more. Jack loses an eye and, his life of his pal out there in No Man's Land. Both fall in love with the same nurse. They find her when they get back from over there. Tom has promotion as his reward; Jack sees his name on the bronze tablet, but there is no job for him. He turns to liquor racketeering. There-after, the drama gets taut, but it is properly leavened with smiles through most of the sequences.

Jack Holt

* * *

THE STORY is treated with softer hand than other gangster films. Holt is a human sort of a hero, despite his crime. He is made the victim of circumstances; but once in the crook game, he is the match for the keenest of the chiefs. He never loses all the good within him at the start; his last gesture is murder to avenge a reportorial weakling, brother of the girl he loves. The noble streak shining through holds audience sympathy to his last march—to the electric chair. Holt does a fine job. So does Tom Moore. Constance Cummings, seen with Walter Huston in "The Criminal Code," is better than she was in that movie.

* * *

BUT "THE LAST PARADE" is primarily a director's picture, and sterling direction of its course lay in the hands of Erle C. Kenton. His mark is realism, and he strives it. Always he sees his cameras effectively; he sends them in close and rushes them here and there, slants them at this angle, and at that, and the imagination is incited to high degree. Thrills follow thrills, and the picture has you gripped.

Just two flaws—Actor Holt should have looked to that "glass eye" more carefully; and that Negro spiritual should never have been stuck on at the end. But "The Last Parade" remains a superb picture. It should spell big business for Keith's.

Danger Lurks Behind Caress

EDWARD EVERETT HORTON AND GEORGETTE RHODES

THE WAYS of a maid with a man are unfathomable as Mr. Horton discovers in a little contest of the touch and go variety with Miss Rhodes. It's in "Lonely Wives," new film at RKO Boston.

WESTWARD TO BLUE GRASS

Another first-run feature picture will be on the Scollay screen tomorrow—M-G-M's "The Great Meadow," with John Mack Brown, Eleanor Boardman, Lucille La Verne, Anita Louise and Gavin Gordon.

"The Great Meadow" is probably the most primitive of American "treks," adapted from a novel by Elizabeth Madox Roberts. A romance is interwoven with hardships more sturdy pioneers encountered, and is climaxed when Eleanor Boardman, through a series of circumstances, finds herself with two husbands.

Starting Monday, the stage show will be in the form of a production, procured from the Paramount Grill in New York, entitled "Paramount Nights," and will feature a galaxy of popular Broadway night club specialty people in addition to 16 Paramount Grill glorified beauties. An elaborate stage set has been built for this show.

Waldron's Casino

Waldron's Casino will have the "Vanity Fair" Burlesquers. The stars are Evelyn Du Bois, Marion Wakefield, June West and Kiddy Kremo. The comedians include Bob Startzman, Jim Carlton, Lew Dean, Sid Gold, George Brennan and Harry Mann. The vaudeville will have Ruff and Stuff and Scout.

'THE PAGAN LADY' FOR SCREEN

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, March 21 —Good morning! Here is a mighty interesting piece of news. The formation of a British-American producing company incorporated under the trade name of B. and E. Ltd., with offices in Hollywood and London! I say particularly interesting, because of the personnel that makes up this new producing organization.

* * *

Jack Buchanan, internationally known musical comedy faverite, is president, Harry Edwards, husband of Evelyn Brent and well known Hollywood producer, is vice-president in charge of production, and Walter Camp, formerly head man of Inspiration Pictures is a member of the directorate. The idea of this infant company is to make pictures both abroad and in our own Hollywood. With the international tariff limiting the exportation of American made films the company plans, Harry Edwards says, to produce an equal number of pictures both in Hollywood and London. "The Pagan Lady," Lenore Ulric's current New York hit, will be the first picture made. I have no idea Evelyn Brent will be the star, but no star or director is so far mentioned.

Louella O. Parsons

LOTS OF time and plenty of money are being spent to get the right vehicle for Dorothy Mackaill. Dorothy is great if she has a role to which she responds sympathetically. But I have never known a girl to be as sensitive to the right stories as Dorothy. If she doesn't like a role it is just too bad for the picture. "As Good As New," Thompson Buchanan's current New York stage play, has been purchased for her by First National. Walter Deleon is writing the adaptation and I have heard several people say that story might have been written with Dorothy in mind.

* * *

I DON'T KNOW whether it was Ralph Emerson or some other philosopher who wrote that if a man can make a mouse trap better than his fellows, the world will make a path to his door. The quotation is all mixed up, but you know what I mean. You read it in your school books, anyway. Frank McHugh plays a reporter better than most people. He played one in "Millie" and in "Front Page," and now he is going to play a reporter to his heart's content in a series of six two-reel comedies for RKO-Pathe. They are all going to be the adventures of a reporter. Well, most reporters have enough material to fill a book if they cared to tell.

* * *

GREAT WEATHER this, isn't it? Good weather to be outdoors. I find I get lots of news that way, walking around the studio lots. For instance, on the first someone told me that Sally Eilers plays one of the leading roles in "The Black Camel," and William Collier, Sr., in "Misbehaving." Good lady, weep some more! That is the new title for "Good Gracious Annabelle." The third change of title given for "Annabelle," Columbia, I hear tell, is dickering with little Mae Clarke, and that Richard Wallace is leaving Paramount at the end of "Kick In."

* * *

"AND WHAT about Clara Bow?" write scores of our correspondents. "Who are you going to put her on the radio and what is she doing?" Clara is finishing "Kick In," then she gets a little holiday and after that she begins work on "The Woman," a play by William de Mille. Paramount bought this play from William de Mille. It is one he wrote long, long ago and I seem to remember it was quite a success on the stage. We are glad Clara is coming back so well. Certainly she ought to be thankful for the many good friends she has who are cheering for her.

I'D HATE to tell anyone how long ago I read "Under Two Flags." Remember the old lady who said "Any woman who tells her age will tell anything." I read Ouida's story long enough ago to give people an idea that it is several years since I passed my 20th birthday. Universal made it in a silent version and now Carl Laemmle is bringing it out into the light of 1931 to make a red-hot talkie number. Wasn't it Priscilla Dean who played in the silent version? Seems to me I remember her in it.

News of interest concerns the determination of Hugh Trevor to leave the screen and become a business man. Hugh Trevor has joined forces with William Hawks and Larry LaBaron in an agency to handle the affairs of the various screen folk. Armand Kalis who always puts a pleasant little finish to any part on the screen, plays "Michael" in "Girls Together," opposite Marjorie Rambeau. Yes, it's a Joan Crawford picture. Excuse me while I answer the telephone.—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer just phoned to say that Monroe Owsley who was recently put on a long term contract, will play opposite Joan in "Girls Together." Sylvia Thalberg and Frank Butler are now writing the adaptation. John Loder is in the Hollywood hospital with acute appendicitis. Jack Pickford is much better and will soon be entirely recovered from his motor accident. Greta Garbo's contract still has a year to run and my guess is she will sign a new one and not go back to Sweden as everyone says.

THIS WOMAN BUT A MAN!

From one little ready-made dress to a wealth of costumes annually, is a long leap in a little over 10 years, but it was accomplished by Karyl Norman. The best dressed woman in vaudeville, is a man! As the Creole Fashion Plate, young Mr. Norman has played across the country many times and also won acclaim in Europe. Now Mr. Norman is back in vaudeville and is heading the RKO Vaudeville bill at the Keith-Boston this week. Karyl Norman was born George Peduzzi in Baltimore of French and Italian ancestry.

Karyl Norman

After playing locally, young Peduzzi ran away and joined Neil O'Brien's minstrels. For three years he remained with the show and then left because he could not stand the street parade, for fallen arches could not stand the long marches. A soubrette role was vacant in a burlesque show and rather than admit defeat and failure, Norman accepted it, an agency to handle the affairs of the various screen folk. Armand Kalis who always puts a pleasant little finish to any part on the screen, plays "Michael" in "Girls Together," opposite Marjorie Rambeau. Yes, it's a Joan Crawford picture. Excuse me while I answer the telephone.—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer just phoned to say that Monroe Owsley who was recently put on a long term contract, will play opposite Joan in "Girls Together." STAR ACTS THE WAITRESS

Camping out with an improvised cook wagon as a commissary in the heart of one of filmdom's largest motion picture studios was the novel experience of the players and crew who made "The Bachelor Father," Marion Davies' new starring vehicle which will come to Loew's State next Friday.

Because of the pressure of night work involved, Director Robert Z. Leonard had a portable steam-table rigged up on whatever set was being used in the making of the Cosmopolitan feature, all hands being served cafeteria style for dinner and "late suppers."

Miss Davies sometimes helped serve herself, donning a waiter's apron to keep her Paris gowns from soiling. Instead of rough "chuck wagon" fare, however, the meals usually consisted of choice delicacies and appetizing roasts and other culinary delights.

C. Aubrey Smith, who created the title role in the original theater production, repeats his performance in the film and the supporting cast includes Guinn Williams, Ralph Forbes, Doris Lloyd, David Torrence, Ray Milland, Nena Quartaro, Elizabeth Murray and Edgar Norton.

MUTUAL SHOW AT HOWARD

An entirely new Mutual burlesque traveling organization will be seen the entire week at the Old Howard beginning Monday matinee. It is known as the "White Crooks" Company. It is modern in every detail and will star Alice Duvall. The comedy element is in the hands of Sam Raynor. Clever also is Alma Montague, a dainty ingenue, is another featured artist. Johnny Crosby is another star. Others include Frank Malishan, Al Murray, Leona DeAlba and Trixie Kodach. In addition the management will provide a vaudeville and picture bill. The Olvera Brothers have an athletic novelty, and William Ebbs and Company have a surprise act. Bentell and Gould are dancing xylophonists. The picture will be "Lawful Larceny" and "When Love Comes Along."

Alma Montague

Vladimir Horowitz

Vladimer Horowitz, whose appearance with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the week past was a brilliant event, is to return to this city for a single recital next month. The great pianist will appear in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, April 19.

HARVARD PLAY BARS GIRLS

"B. J. One," a play in three acts by Commander Stephen Kingsley Hall, R. N., has been chosen by the Harvard Dramatic Club for its 41st annual spring production to be staged the last week in April. The author's permission has been obtained and only the final word from his agents in London is being awaited.

"B. J. One" has an all male cast, with 35 parts to be filled. This will mark the first time since the beginning of the club that neither Radcliffe students nor members of the Boston Opportunante set have been invited to assist, but the officers of the club emphasized that this was by no means intended to set a precedent.

Fenway Film

Benefit Will Aid Work at Hospital

Mrs. David Cheever is Chairman of Committee for Show at Exeter Theater

TO BENEFIT THE SOCIAL service work at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, which last year gave to thousands of patients aid after illness, Mrs. David Cheever has announced the performance of two moving pictures for Saturday morning, April 18, at the Exeter Street Theater. A co-operating committee will assist Mrs. Cheever.

THE FIRST FILM THAT will be shown is that absorbing picture, "The Lost Gods," which shows the romance of excavation in the vicinity of the Sahara desert, and was made by an expedition sent out by the Algiers Museum of Natural History and headed by Count Byron Khun de Prorok, famous author and scientist. This film is the result of eight years' research in a civilization which had been buried for 4000 years, and is accompanied by a lecture in which Count de Prorok entertainingly interprets the extraordinary sights and almost unbelievable facts brought out in the picture.

THE NEXT FILM WILL BE Sir Walter Scott's "Lady of the Lake," as authentically filmed at Stirling Castle and in the Highlands of Scotland. Because synchronism throughout with harp, bagpipes and the marching songs of the clans, "Lady of the Lake" makes an appeal to Scottish people.

ASSISTING MRS. CHEEVER in the details of this movie morning are Mrs. Harvey Cushing, Mrs. Roger B. Merriman, Mrs. Richard C. Pain Mrs. S. Burt Welbach, Mrs. Donald M. Frost, Mrs. William P. Murphy, Mrs. J. P. O'Hare, Mrs. Samuel A. Levine, Mrs. Francis C. Hall, Mrs. Gustave Granfield, Mrs. Robert T. Monroe, Mrs. J. L. Bremer, Mrs. F. Donald Cochrane, Mrs. Charles P. Curtis, Mrs. F Murray Forbes, Mrs. George P. Denney, Mrs. John Homans, Mrs. Walter Hunnewell, Miss Katherine Amory, Mrs. Reginald Fitz and others.

AT VINCENT CLUB SHOW

Mr. David Craven and Miss Marian Duane were among the first-nighters at the Arlington Theater. Miss Duane was a debutante of last season and is a member of the Junior League.

Patrons Announced for Illustrated Talk by Capt. MacMillan

IN CONTRAST TO THE usual list of patronesses for worthy charities, comes a list of well-known Boston gentlemen who are serving as patrons for the illustrated lecture to be given by the noted Arctic explorer, Capt. Donald B. MacMillan, in aid of Sir Wilfred Grenfell's chain of little hospitals in Labrador. The lecture is to be given in Jordan Hall on Tuesday evening, March 31. The patrons are: George W. Auryansen, William Bacon, Dr. George S. C. Badger, George Bramwell Baker, Frank H. Beebe, Reginald W. Bird, Dr. David Cheever, H. E. Clifford, Grafton D. Cushing, Dr. Harvey Cushing, Reginald A. Daly, Dr. Francis H. Davenport, Dr. James M. Faulkner, Frederick A. Flood, Hollis French, H. S. French, George S. Fuller, Dr. Joel E. Goldthwait, British Consul-General Edward H. Gray, Richard N. Greenwood, Courtenay Guild, Prof. Edwin H. Hall, N. Penrose Hallowell, Henry I. Harriman and P. L. Higginson.

OTHERS ARE DONALD M. HILL, Frederick Holdsworth, Ralph Hornblower, Charles P. Hutchins, F. L. Kennedy, the Rev. Arthur L. Kinsolving, George F. F. Lombard, Dr. Andrew J. McAusland, Frederick H. Mansfield, Henry L. Mason, Judge James M. Morton, Jr., Foyo M. Murphy, Frank L. H. Nason, Henry B. Patrick, Harold Peabody, Dr. M. N. Smith-Peterson, James J. Phelan, Walter M. Pratt, W. H. Rand, Jr., Arthur L. Risley, Robert Saltonstall, C. Radford Sands, Sabin F. Sanger, Henry B. Sawyer, Dr. Horace F. Stevens, Henry N. Sweet, George H. Swift, Dr. E. W. Taylor, Dr. Augustus Thorndike, Cushing Toppan, Henry Dec. Ward, Alexander Whitefield, Dr. Alfred Worcester, the Rev. Elwood Worcester and William Glover Reuter.

Junior Leaguers to Entertain Before Showing of Films

ON THURSDAY, MARCH 26, at 8:30 p.m., Junior League members and their friends will be shown the famous film of English sports—"The Playgrounds of Great Britain," which was shown recently at the Harvard Club. Many dinners are to be given before it, and among those entertaining at the Junior League are Mrs. Edward M. Warren, Mrs. Nelson Bigelow and Miss Elizabeth T. Soule. The film shows all of the major sports of Great Britain, Henley regatta, Cowes, tennis at Wimbledon, the Dublin Horse Show, cricket at Lords, the Derby, Ascot, the Royal Tournament at Olympia, the Air Force Pageant at Hendon, the Oxford and Cambridge boat races and many other excellent pictures of golf, football and tennis. This film will be followed by another entitled "Thrills in Sport."

About People You Know in Boston Stores

—By FRANCES L. BAIRD—

A DRY SPOT IN BERLIN

Prohibition for Americans in Berlin!

"You couldn't believe it unless you had dined at the American cafe in the House Vaterland in Berlin," explained James W. Hagan, buyer of linens, cottons and blankets for Jordan's basement store, who has just returned from a six-week trip in Ireland, England, France, Germany, Belgium and Czechoslovakia.

"When you are homesick in Europe you hunt up a place that serves alleged American food," he said. "The Vaterland was built at a cost of $3,000,000 to cater to just this craving, and it satisfies the homesick traveler from every country on the globe. The American finds real American cooking, and real American customs followed—even to prohibition. You can't get anything but soft drinks there."

Of course, there is a French cafe, and Spanish, Turkish, and those of other lands under the same roof. If you insist on violating the Eighteenth Amendment, he added.

In Czecho the prevailing idea of young folks out for a good time evenings is to bring a newspaper or magazine to a beer garden, sip a tall glass of beer and flirt over the paper," Hagan observed. "At 9:30 they go home. Each town has but one movie theater."

STYLE SHOW IN WINDOWS

The deep, dark secret that Benjamin D. Shreve, president of Shreve, Crump and Low, has been guarding so carefully, is out today. He's been getting up a style show which opens tomorrow with mannequins in his windows. Four modistes are furnishing the costumes, Anna Lawless, Madame et la Jeune Fille (Mrs. John Chickerman), Madame Eames and Miss Wilson. Howard Rose of Thayer McNeil Co. chose the footwear and hosiery to be used by four debutantes modelling next Thursday and Friday, and Mr. Root at R. H. Stearns Co. chose the fabrics used for backgrounds.

LEARNING THE BUSINESS

When the son or daughter of a successful merchant wishes to learn the business these days they usually go to work at the bottom in some other establishment than where father is the chief.

Thus we find Miss Dorothy Shepard, the slim blonde daughter of John Shepard of the store bearing that name, earnestly selling gloves at E. T. Slattery's today. She works every Saturday in some part of this store, under the direction of Miss Ruth Chamberlain, personnel officer, and studies during the week days at the Chamberlain School of Everyday Art. The daughter of Mr. Dutton of the firm of Houghton and Dutton, served her apprenticeship at Slattery's under Miss Chamberlain's training.

AUTHOR GREETS VISITORS

Walter Everett, head of the book department at R. H. White Co., is proudly introducing, in person, A. J. Villiers, author of "By Way of Cape Horn," to visitors there today. Villiers lectured at the City Club several weeks ago and at the Harvard Club last night.

NEW COURSE AT FILENE'S

A resource group, limited to 15 selected candidates, is being formed at Filene's for training under the personal direction of George Craig, it was announced today by the personnel superintendent.

Candidates must have had at least six months' selling experience in the store and have completed satisfactorily the courses in elementary textiles, color and design, and salesmanship before applying to assistant service superintendent, Theron Walker. George Craig and Ackley Sies for this opportunity.

NOW ON HONEYMOON

Estelle Kasanoff, former assistant buyer of the misses' better dresses at Filene's, became the bride of Sol Stern of Roxbury at the Beacon House, Brookline, Thursday evening. The couple are en route to Bermuda on their honeymoon and upon their return will make their home in Brookline.

NEW JOB FOR McCARTHY

Edmond McCarthy, in charge of the third floor of Jordan's Annex, is winding up his affairs in Boston preparatory to leaving for his new position with Higbee's in Cleveland, O. Mr. McCarthy is the son of a former merchandise manager of the store, and a graduate of Boston College. He has been identified with Jordan's for many years in the house furnishings and other departments. Samuel Rantz and Arnold Rich are deciding the buying responsibility of house furnishings. McCarthy goes to Cleveland in about a month.

ON SOUTHERN TRIP

Ralph C. Hudson, executive vice-president of Jordan Marsh Co., and Mrs. Hudson sailed from New York today for Havana for a two-week sojourn a the Hotel National.

STORE SNAPSHOTS

By NANCY BREWSTER

The annual musicale and tea of the Dorchester Catholic Guild will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Hotel Somerset from 3 to 5 p. m. The Rev. Frederick Kinsman will speak on "The Oxford Movement."

Mrs. John McElroy, guild president, will introduce the speaker. Miss Daisy Talbot will present the musical program. Chairman of the various committees include Mrs. Joseph Gartland, hospitality; Mrs. Thomas Dolan, reception; Mrs. Edward Fitzgibbon, ushers; Mrs. John Shea, program; Mrs. Thomas Kelley, publicity.

At the tea which will climax the afternoon's program, Mrs. Martin Fannon, Mrs. John Durgin, Mrs. Manus Fish, Mrs. Joseph J. Nolan and Mrs. John McGann will act as pourers.

State Federation Session on Tuesday

A conference of the division of literature and drama of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs will be held at the Boston Y. W. C. A., Clarendon st., next Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, state president, and Mrs. Charles H. Wetherbee, division adviser, will be the guests of the day.

As chairman of the division, Miss Phoebe Lee Hosmer will preside and introduce as the speakers Mrs. Clara Tree Major of the Children's Theater, New York; Pitt Parker, platform assistant and art lecturer and Miss Marie Were Laughton, dramatic coach at the morning session.

A one-act playlet, "The Flattering Word," by George Kelley will open the afternoon program, followed by addresses by Dorothy Speare, author and prima donna.

Fr. Corrigan Warns of Communism Evils

Lawrence, March 21—"Unless capital provides increasing security, self-respect and adequate leisure for the mass of the workers, the worst evil, indeed the curse of Communism, will be upon us," the Rev. John J. Corrigan, S. J., told members of the St. Mary's Holy Name Society at St. Mary's Hall here

The Boston College professor deplored Communism as "chaos," and New York today for Havana for a two-week sojourn a the Hotel National.

"The present economic system in this country, however, is hardly defensible as carried out by present day leaders, he said. He urged the workers to keep away from Communistic principles.

Museum Rembrandts Declared Spurious

New York, March 21 (AP)—With the possible exception of "The Guilder," every painting labeled Rembrandt in the Metropolitan Museum of Art is spurious in the opinion of Dr. Maximilian Toch, chemist. He made this assertion in an address before the New York Microscopical Society at the American Museum of Natural History last night.

Lindy and Anne Invited to Boston

Mayor Curley last night sent invitations to Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh to come to Boston June 23 for the national convention of the Sojourners, an organization of Masonic officers in the military service, of which "Lindy" is a member.

Gray Is Good Under Color for Now

By ANN ARDEN

FROCKS ARE turning pale at the thought of spring, but the paleness is most becoming. Pastel colors are a welcome relief after the dark and somber hues of the past season. The soft, frilly frocks that adopt these light shades seem to demand the delicacy of color by their graceful lines.

* * *

ONE FROCK that is a decided change from what you have been wearing will do a great deal for your early spring wardrobe. Gray is suggested because it has been neglected for so long and because its fashion rating is really high at present.

* * *

BLONDES with gray eyes will particularly appreciate the current importance of pale grays. These are charming worn beneath the bright coats which rank so well now. Pale grays are also lovely under darker gray coats.

* * *

GRAY COATS are appearing importantly among the lighter colored wraps that typify the spring's offerings. Gray fox is a popular trimming.

* * *

THE ONE-PIECE dress pictured has a two-piece effect as well as subtle color contrast. Of pale gray crepe, the skirt has many gores, and the blouse top an interesting side closing marked by cut steel buttons. The belt slips through the loops, and buttons each side front. The frock is becoming trimmed in lingerie touch of net ruffles in dusty pink, finely pleated and embroidered. These outline the square neck, bodice closing, and climax the attractive sleeves. The hat of dull rough straw has its profile brim split center back, and is banded in ribbon of black and dusty pink, the ends fringed.

* * *

THIS IN-BETWEEN dress perfectly fits occasions that are neither very formal nor informal. In flat crepe, or the semi-sheer fabrics this type of dress is perfectly adapted to the softest of pastel shades.

* * *

GRAY AS a costume color is delightfully paradoxical—it can be so very demure or so startlingly sophisticated. Paris is indicating a marked interest in it of late.

* * *

THERE'S hardly a dress or suit this spring that doesn't flaunt a crisp piece of neckwear. Usually white, but oftentimes in the soft elusive pastels. Sometimes it's severely plain and tailored—other times it's delightfully frilly. And what woman doesn't know how enchanting this touch can be? If she chooses carefully the success of her costume is enhanced two-fold.

Spring Is Here, Tra La Tra La La

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Mr. Hoover is enjoying his ocean itinerary on the Arizona which vindicates Mr. Coolidge's judgment.

Mr. Hoover can enjoy this trip. There is nothing unusual to worry about. There is a treasury deficit of seven hundred million. But like Eve's first dress we are doing the best we can with the material at hand.

There was a generous slump in income tax receipts. That's because Andy Mellon signs dollar bills with a machine that has only 24 pens on it.

Put 46 pens on the gimmick and Andy will soon catch up.

All we need are ideas like that. And prosperity is as easy to start as a Hindu riot.

Anyway, it's the first day of spring. Don't have to buy any more coal, grass is green, all's right with the world and the Baby Austin is in the two-car doghouse.

Learn to Play the Piano

Starting tomorrow, the BOSTON SUNDAY ADVERTISER will publish the first lesson of the W. Scott Grove Course in Piano Playing. This course is so simple that any child can, by its aid, be started on the way to proficiency on the piano or organ. The fundamental principles in music must first be mastered . . . that is essential. The Music Simplifier Course in Piano Playing teaches the fundamental principles in the easiest and simplest manner possible. It makes the learning a pleasure study by making it fascinating. You know at all times what you are doing, why you are doing it, and what progress you are making.

The author of the plan believes that any person will reach the point where he can play simple popular music, and if he wants to get beyond that, and in all probability he will, Boston instruction offers the best possible training.

BE SURE TO GET THESE LESSONS FROM THE START. EACH LESSON WILL BE PRINTED ONE TIME ONLY. REMEMBER THERE ARE 24 OF THEM. LESSON 1 TOMORROW.

Mary Lou Refuses to Wed Larry and Prepares to Look Out for a Job

"You marry me, Mary Lou, and I'll take care of you."

How the Story Started

Mary Lou Thurston, a beautiful and vivacious girl of the "home" type, orphaned by the death of her parents, lives with her aunt and uncle, Clara and Howard Sanderson. The former is private secretary to a publisher, and the latter an engineer. Mary Lou looks after Billy, their very lively youngster. Larry Mitchell, energetic young newspaper reporter, is Mary Lou's pal. Mary Lou is happy, but vitally restless. Larry appears on the scene, rescues Billy from peril in traffic, makes a date with Mary Lou for the next day and dashes off in his pursuit of news.

By Faith Baldwin

Author of "The Office Wife," "Alimony" and other famous serials

OH, TO BE LARRY . . . free to come and go and to see adventure first hand! When he told her, as he sometimes did, of his daily round—never dull to Larry, now that he had graduated from reporting unimportant political dinners and ward picnics—Mary Lou, listening to those sagas, would grow wide-eyed and breathless, living it over, every step of the way—

"So this cop steps up, see, and pulls out his gun and says—"

Here, Mary Lou would shiver and close her eyes and then open them, bravely facing that gleaming message of death, hearing mentally, and, perhaps, prematurely, the sharp, resonant report . . .

Oh, to be the actress she had been last week! The poet whose book had just thrilled her! The new champion of the tennis courts!

But she had a saving grace, her sense of humor. As she couldn't act—well, perhaps she could, a little; she'd appeared in church society plays now and then and had performed with poise and delight. But she couldn't act well enough to be anything but a pretty amateur. And she wove all sorts of delightful stories in her mind, she couldn't put them down on paper. She hadn't even inherited her father's little gift for line and color. She had no marketable talent. And she knew it.

Amazing News

She was to know it even more convincingly a week or so later when Howard Sanderson came home one night with the amazing news that he had had an offer to go to the Orient on construction engineering work; and, what was more amazing, to take Mrs. Sanderson with him, in the capacity of secretary to the expedition.

"Far lands and alien places and a chance to do a good job and to travel! They'd always wanted to travel, especially Clara, who had often envied Howard's light-hearted sister and her husband. But now, there was Billy to think of and also Mary Lou, for whom they were responsible.

Sanderson had three weeks to make up his mind. And for two weeks, every evening, Saturday afternoons and Sundays, the family went into a sort of huddle—perhaps we had better call it a conference—and discussed the matter, pro and con.

Larry was present, often, putting in his shrewd oar now and then. He fully appreciated the Sandersons' anxiety to accept the offer, to get away, out of the rut, to see things for themselves. But Ma. Lou worried him; she tried so hard to be fair, tried so hard not to be bewildered, tried so hard to forget herself; yet she was a bit white-lipped these days, there were shadows under the blue eyes, dark as bruises on the white skin. And in her eyes, although she tried to hide it, he read the unconscious appeal—

"What is to become of me?"

No Training

For she wasn't trained. Not as a clerk, a bookkeeper, a nurse, a teacher, a stenographer or a secretary. And she had always been so sheltered; in her years of wandering, by her father's and mother's love and vigilant protection, and since then, by the friendly roof of the little house, by the affection of her relatives.

But—

"You must go!" decided Mary Lou, firmly, when the time was almost up.

"But you—?"

"Never mind me—" said Mary Lou.

"Billy," said Billy's mother, on a long breath, broken off like a sob, "Billy's pretty little to leave behind and we can't take him. I mean, children get sick so quickly—they—they—"

"Don't say it!" cried Mary Lou, rather unnecessarily, for indeed Clara couldn't finish, "Billy's the healthiest child in the world! Gram says she'll take him. You haven't a thing to worry about. It's your big chance. You must go," she repeated, firmly.

There was a little silence. Larry Mitchell looked across at Mary Lou and at her gallantly shining eyes. But he thought she saw uncertainty, fear, even, in their blue depths, as if a child still cried out, lonely and frightened—"What will become of me!"

In that moment Larry's sacrificial gesture of the generous heart was born.

"I know," Clara said after a moment, "that Gram will take Billy—she and Adelaide can look after him all right—but—there's you, to be considered, dear—"

"I'll be all right," said Mary Lou bravely. "I could stay with Gram for a little while, until I get a job."

Dear Old Lady

"Gram" was Clara Sanderson's mother. Mrs. Jennings, a dear old lady, almost old enough to be the daughter's grandmother. She lived out on Long Island in a quaint, little, old-fashioned house, and with her lived her only other surviving child, Adelaide, who had given up school teaching for a happy invalidism. Adelaide was over 50 and enjoyed poor health.

There would be room for Billy with Gram and Aunt Adelaide: cookie jars and creamy milk; a garden to play in; two devoted slaves to bind up wounded knees and tell stories and listen to prayers. There was a school nearby Oh, Billy would be taken care of!

But there was no room for Mary Lou, that is, not for long, and Gram's income was very limited indeed. The Sandersons could pay for Billy's certified milk, board and lodging but they couldn't afford to pay for Mary Lou's—and Mary Lou needed lots of air and space and she had a healthy appetite.

Presently the meeting adjourned. Out on the front porch Mary Lou sat with Larry, while the Sandersons, in the living room, went over the details of their trip—the advantages, the disadvantages, the fears and hopes and worries. Howard pacing the floor, smoking furiously and Clara sitting on the couch, a wet handkerchief in one hand but a sparkle in her eyes. If she could only persuade herself that Billy would be all right and Mary

LAD, 12, FAILS TO RALLY AFTER OPERATION

Frankie O'Brien Loses Five Months' Fight for His Life; Under Knife Five Times

Frankie O'Brien, 12-year-old "sunshine" patient, died at the City Hospital early today, a victim of the ravages of five major operations in the past five months.

In his losing battle during the past five months the boy had endeared himself to nurses and doctors at the hospital by his sunny disposition and smiling face.

It was only three weeks ago that the fifth operation, the draining of a brain abscess was performed. Nurses and doctors said it was only his own courage and faith that pulled him through the ordeal and set him apparently on the road to recovery.

Four previous operations, for a fractured skull, brain abscesses, a spine abscess and a ruptured appendix had taxed his slender frame and blood transfusions were necessary after two of these operations to save his life.

After his fifth operation a few weeks ago he sent word to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien, of Dexter st., South Boston, that he would soon be well and home again. He celebrated his 12th birthday at the hospital just before the last operation.

New Police Signal System Put to Test

Receiving word of a disturbance on Lanark st., the desk officer at Station 14 pressed the button flashing a light over all the police boxes in that vicinity and within a minute four patrolmen called in. The first officer to respond was sent to the scene and found a crowd of boys annoying residents by running through the yards.

MILL STRIKE IS SETTLED

Fall River, March 21—The strike of 400 operatives of American Printing Co., in force since March 9, because of a reduction of 10 per cent in wages ended today when the strikers unanimously voted to accept an offer of the company officials.

This offer was that an adjustment will be made so that wages of employes will "compare favorably" with those of employes in any other mill in the city.

The offer of the mill officials resulted from a conference yesterday between mill officials, leaders of the textile council and the recently appointed Fall River Finance Committee. The company agreed to reinstate all former employes who were replaced by non-union workers after the strike began.

All five mills of the company are expected to be open within two weeks, and will employ 2500 workers.

2 WOMEN HELD AS SHOPLIFTERS

With the arraignment of two alleged women shoplifters in Lynn district court today, Lynn police believe they have smashed shoplifting ring that has been operating there during the past several months.

Mrs. Albina Beauline, 20, of Liberty st., and Rita Zakian, 25, of Brownville ave., both of Lynn, were arraigned before Judge Ralph W. Reeves in district court charged with larceny. They pleaded not guilty and were held in bonds of $1500 each for a hearing March 25.

Inspectors Frank Stevens and Voorhes Renson, of the Lynn police, arrested Mrs. Beauline in her apartment, where they claim they found dresses and silk underwear valued at $1000. Mrs. Zarkian was arrested outside the apartment house.

Jilted Lynn Man Accused of Theft

As a result of a complaint made by Miss Winifred Donohue of Essex st., Lynn, police of that city are searching for Carl Saunders of Hamilton ave., Lynn, with a warrant charging him with larceny.

Miss Donohue said eight dresses and silk underwear were stolen from her bedroom and she believed Saunders committed the theft as a means of effecting a reconciliation between them. She said they had been engaged and had broken the engagement.

DRISCOLL BACK FROM NEW YORK

Returned late last night from New York, John Driscoll, alias Frederick Driscoll, 57, was being questioned today by police regarding his avowal that he was "shanghaied" on the eve of his appearance as a state witness in a liquor case.

Driscoll has been sought since he failed to appear last week at the trial of John Gleason, alleged to have sold Driscoll a pint of liquor. Gleason is a brother of City Councillor Richard D. Gleason.

Leo Bohwarts, legal adviser to Police Commissioner Hultman, asked a continuance of Gleason's case following receipt of a letter from New York, purporting to be from Driscoll, which said,

"I have been shanghaied in New York. Come and get me."

The police department refused to make public the manner in which Driscoll was located.

MYSTERIOUS WAYE

"Got him!" said James. "We'll get him certified mad."

What Has Gone Before

The mysterious John Waye threatens to expose the criminal life of Dr. Charters, nursing home proprietor, unless he provides him with an alibi for the murder of "Spider" Schlitz. Astounded that his secret should be known to a stranger, the doctor consents. In America, Dr. Charters, then under another name, has robbed Schlitz and Chink Dorson of their shares of the loot in the St. Clair diamond haul. Among his evil companions at that time was a woman who has since become the respectable Mrs. Louderdell. Her niece, Marjorie Louderdell, has been ill since moving to her uncle's and is a patient at the home. It is suggested that the troublesome Mr. Waye be "bumped off."

Now Read On:

CHAPTER 5

Trap for Waye

"BUMP NOTHING," interrupted Dr. Charters sharply. Don't you suppose he thought of that before he butted in here and showed his hand? He's the wise guy, all right. Why, he's actually got a solicitor. Can you beat it? And he's coming to see him here tomorrow. And our mysterious Mr. Waye says he is going to have him called a week. Bump him off! And another thing, he has actually had the nerve to ask what his good colleague, Sir Bernard Mattlieson," to come meet me in consultation about his mental condition!"

The doctor's hearers sat in open mouthed silence.

"Bluff," growled Mr. James. "Bump him off before he does any more mischief. He knows too much. Yes, what does he know? And who is he?"

"Yes, and why exactly should he come to us, to hide?" asked Dr. Charters.

"Well," replied Dr. Charters, "that London specialist has heard about, either will, or will not turn up. Sir Bernard Mattlieson either will, or will not, write me and ask me if I have any objections to consultation about his patient, Mr. Waye. We might look silly if we couldn't produce him; and, moreover, he says he's written to half-a-dozen people, giving this address and saying he would on no account leave here without letting them know in advance.

Knows Too Much

"Secondly, as to what he knows, believe me, he knows a night too much. Nevertheless, bumping off is easier said than done.

"And easer done than undone," he added. "And as for who he is, I don't know him, but he knows me, and he knows Jimmy all right. Whether he knows Manuel Machado, 'Frisco Fanny and Louie the Lady, remains to be seen.

"Lastly—why he should come to us. Where could a man living safer than in a famous Nursing-Home of the highest repute?"

Especially when he's got the beige of the Boss," observed Mr. James, unkindly.

"Can't bump him off, for fear we have to produce him," said Dr. Charters patiently. "Can't kick him out, or let the police get him, because he'll tell the world."

"What do we do if Scotland Yard calls him here?" asked Nurse Jones.

"Tell them to take him and hang him quick," growled Mr. James.

"Very helpful," snarled Dr. Charters. "Where'd you be, as well as some other people, by the time he's said his say? And, mark you, he is in a vindictive mood. Wish heaven I could place him, for he places us all right, and means to see that we get what's coming to us."

"Well, what'll we do if Scotland Yard calls him here?" repeated Nurse Jones.

"Difficult," observed the matron, "though it was real luck that Sister Weldon had been on leave. Told me she once had Room 19 wasn't a patient at all, but a friend of the doctor's own —perfectly well, but 'eccentric.' I think she swallowed it."

"Difficult, perhaps, but we've got to do it," commanded Dr. Charters, "and with two doctors, the matron and a nurse we ought to get away with it. If one of the dicks was asking me if a tall, ugly, clean-shaven guy had bluffed his way in here, I shouldn't recognize the description. . . I can't remember all the patients' clothes, can I?

"And if he said there was, in this Nursing-Home, a guy who rather resembled a description they'd had of Mr. Theophilus Webb's alleged murderer, and identified this mysterious Waye tough, I should say!

"Him? Why he was in bed here when that murder was committed. Been here for days.'

"Then if I rank for Dr. Emmanuel MacAdoo, who is in charge of the case, and said:

"Doctor, on what day did Mr. Waye come into the Nursing Home?" and the doctor said he'd been here since Tuesday week, and then I sent for the nurse in charge and the matron who got his room ready, wouldn't that dick apologize for all the trouble he'd given me?"

"Mighty's the dick ask for Wayne's fingerprints?" asked Nurse Jones.

"No, replied the doctor. "Even a dick wouldn't have the face to ask Dr. Charters of The Monastery, to let him take the fingerprints of a gentleman whom he guaranteed to have been here on the date when some murder was committed.

"Anyhow, we've got to take a chance," he added, "for this ugly devil's got us in a cleft stick. He's got us as tight as we've got him.

"And he's got a second string for a let-off. If he's pinched after he leaves here, he's going to act the lunatic if we refuse to give him an alibi. He'll try to get past, as not responsible for his actions, then recover his sanity gradually."

Witnesses

Suddenly Mr. James smote his thigh.

"Got him," he said. "He's mad, is he? Right! You and Doc MacAdoo have a talk to this Sir Bernard Mattlieson when he comes and call us and any number of other people, in evidence—and get him certified mad before he squeals on us. Put him away for keeps—and then, the more the poor fanatic lists the world—the more they'll put the handcuffs and strait-waistcoat on him and shut him in the padded cell."

Dr. Charters and his colleagues stared at the speaker.

"You've said something, Jimmy," ejaculated the doctor. "Get him certified mad, and put him away for life; and the more he sets mad now, the tighter he'll tie himself up. The clever Mr. Waye! Out of his own mouth. That's really funny. And the doctor's laugh was unpleasant.

Waltham Worker Is Reappointed to Post

In compliance with an order of the civil service commission, Mayor Patrick J. Duane of Waltham directed the discharge today of Lucien J. Rheaume and Edward F. Fennell from the Waltham forestry department and the reinstatement Monday of Patrick J. Conners, one of the ten workers who were recently dropped from the forestry force.

Waltham Boys Sent to Industrial School

The trio of Waltham youths who were rounded up by Newton and Waltham police and charged among other things with snatching handbags were sentenced to the State Industrial school when arraigned in Newton juvenile court. The youths are Felix Gumber, William J. Marshall and Joseph L. McGonigle.

Another Cut in Gas Price on Coast Due

San Francisco, March 21 (US)—Another cut of one cent a gallon in the retail price of gasoline was presaged when major oil companies reduced their tank truck price to nine cents a gallon. A slash to 11 cents in the retail price was momentarily expected.

Sunday School Head Quits After 18 Years

James Tully, for 18 years superintendent of the Sunday school of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Newton Upper Falls, has retired. He will be succeeded by Alfred P. Hartshorne of Needham Heights.

RELIGIOUS INTERESTS MAKE READY

AS EASTER APPROACHES

As Palm Sunday and Easter approach churches and all forms of church societies are preparing for the annual religious festival. Choruses are practicing, organists working on programs, and ministers laboring over inspirational messages. There will be an unusually large number of hill top sunrise services in Greater Boston.

SUN-RISE SERVICE

Young people are in the midst of preparations for a sun-rise Easter morning service on Boston Common, which they believe will be attended by a much larger number of worshippers than in past years. The speaker for this occasion is the Rev. Vaughan Dabney of the Second Church, Dorchester, and also president of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches. The Youth Committee has the affair in hand. Rudolph Anderson has consented to lead in the singing.

CLERGYMEN TO MEET

Professor F. W. Adams of the Boston University Theological School will address the Congregational ministers Monday morning in Pilgrim Hall, 14 Beacon st., at 11 o'clock on "Present Trends in Worship." This will be followed by a general discussion on the subject.

Methodist ministers at the same time and hour meeting in Wesleyan hall will join with the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of Old Tremont St. for an anniversary gathering. Leaders in the missionary movement will be present.

"LAST SEVEN WORDS OF CHRIST"

The Auburndale Methodist Church, where the Rev. Earl Harper was formerly pastor, and where the Rev. Maurice L. Bullock now presides, presents tomorrow evening Theodore Dubois, "The Seven Last Words of Christ." This is one of a series of lenten services being held in this church. On Good Friday evening the Centenary Methodist Church will join with the Episcopal Church in an annual joint service.

MT. VERNON CHURCH

Next Wednesday evening at this church, 5 Massachusetts ave., the Rev. Charles E. Park, D.D., of the First Unitarian Church, Boston, is to deliver a lenten message. This vesper service is at 5:30 and concludes the series.

BACK BAY CULTS

An excursion will be made tomorrow of people interested in visiting the headquarters of a number of religious movements, many of which center in various parts of the Back Bay. The Rev. Herbert Jump of the Union Church conducts the excursion. Those who are interested should be at the Metaphysical Club, 23 Huntington ave., this afternoon shortly after lunch.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Matter" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 22.

The Golden Text is: "I am the Lord: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images" (Isaiah 42:8).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "He that touches the hem of Christ's robe and masters his mortal beliefs, animality and hate, rejoices in the proof of healing.—in a sweet and certain sense that God is Love" (p. 569).

The Sunday services of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, are held at 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

CATHOLIC RADIO

Broadcast from Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores, Boston, every Sunday afternoon from 1 to 2 p. m.

Program for Sunday, March 22: Speaker, Rev. Luke Hay, C. P., St. Gabriel's Monastery.

LITTLE FLOWER

A novena in honor of Saint Theresa of the Child Jesus will be held on Thursday with four services at 12:20 (noon-day Mass), 3:30, 6:30 and 7:45 p. m.

Rev. Francis V. Murphy, D. D., will conduct all the novena services and preach at 3:30. Rev. Thomas M. Lane of the Holy Rosary Church, South Boston, will preach at 6:30 and 7:45.

PASSION PLAY

An unusually interesting production is promised to lovers of the drama in the presentation of the passion play, "Mary Magdalen," by the pupils of the Academy of the Assumption, Wellesley Hills, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week at 3:30 in the afternoon.

St. Paul's Cathedral Has Bishop Dallas

Today noon, Professor William Lyon Phelps, a professor in the department of Religious philosophy at Yale University preaches. During the week the St. Paul's pulpit will be filled by Bishop John T. Dallas of New Hampshire, formerly assistant rector at St. Paul's.

Bishop Dallas

The Rev. Howard Chandler Robbins D.D. of New York will be the morning preacher at the cathedral tomorrow morning.

CHURCHES

NOONDAY SPEAKERS

BISHOP SHERRILL

DR. A. T. BROOKS

A program of unusual interest is promised for this week at the Old South Meeting House by the Greater Boston Federation of Churches. On Monday noon will come the Rev. Theodore G. Soares; Tuesday, the Rev. William DeBerry; Wednesday, Bishop Sherrill, Dr. Arthur T. Brooks completes the week. Special musical artists include Alden Davies, the Beacon Hill Quartet, Stanley Cross, Walter B. Wright and G. Ralph Young.

"MEDICAL FADS AND QUACKERY"

Dr. Morris Fishvein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, and author of numerous books, including "The Medical Follies," is to address the Ford Hall audience tomorrow evening. The doctor says: "Each new discovery in science finds a quack ready to set it to work for his own gain."

"THE SENSE OF SIN"

Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, a professor of Union Theological School, New York city, will address Community Church tomorrow morning in Symphony Hall on "The Sense of Sin." Dr. Niebuhr, in addition to his work at the seminary, is one of the editors of The World Tomorrow. Special music will precede the address.

BAPTIST MINISTERS

The Rev. Vaughan Dabney, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, will address the Baptist ministers' meeting next Monday morning. He calls his talk, "A Lenten Message." Dr. Dabney is minister of the Second Church, Dorchester.

TRINITY CHURCH

Noonday speakers at Trinity Church this week include: Monday, the Rev. Frederick Lawrence, rector of St. Peter's Church, Cambridge; March 24-25, the Rev. Phillip Jensen, rector of St. Thomas', Owing's Mills, Md., and March 27, the Very Rev. John M. McGann, D. D., of Christ Church Cathedral, Springfield.

"PRAYER, PRAYER, PRAYER"

The Rev. Arthur T. Brooks, D. D., of the Tremont St. Baptist Church has prepared a sermon for tomorrow morning on "Why I Believe What I Believe." In the evening it will be on "Prayer, Prayer, Prayer—Its Mighty Power."

Starting with a luncheon tomorrow noon 50 workers of the church will start on a campaign of friendly visiting in Roxbury. Supper will be served each evening for these workers who will compare results and plan for future work. Pre-Easter boxes of self-denial are numerous in this church. Music as usual will be of a high order and many inspirational hymns are to be sung.

"REVERSING THE CLOAK"

"God Also Is Wise" is a title chosen by the Rev. John Shade Franklin of the West Newton Baptist Church for a sermon to be preached tomorrow morning. In the evening he talks on "Reversing the Cloak," and he will be accompanied by 40 voices of the Auburndale Congregational Church.

PERSONALITY

Dr. William L. Bidger of the Copley Methodist Church continues tomorrow his series of Lenten sermons on "Personality." Tomorrow morning he will treat "The Personality of the Larger Living." At the 4:30 vesper service, Dr. Bidger's adult class will give the Lenten meditation.

"THE MAGNETIC CHRIST."

Before a congregation in which there will be six chapters of the Order of DeMolay Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher will preach a sermon on "The Magnetic Christ." The De Molay is the boys' order of the Masonic lodge, and 1000 boys led by colorful parade are expected to march to the Temple. Three of the counsellors will take part.

There will be a baptismal ceremony at 5:45. At the evening service Dr. Brougher will deliver the sermon in his series on married life and "Home, Sweet Home." His will answer the prelude questions, "Will the coming man marry?" and "Why is it that so few business girls marry?"

UNIVERSALISTS

Ministers of this denomination who meet regularly on Monday mornings for their weekly parsonial conference have found a way to keep meetings, dates and speakers so vividly in mind that no clergyman has excuse that he was uninformed. On the back of a desk blotter the program has been printed. Every time a Universalist parson plots a letter he sees before him full information about the next Monday morning meeting. He is perfectly aware that the Rev. Eric A. Ayer of North Weymouth is to be the speaker next Monday morning at the Church of the Redemption, and that the Rev. G. H. Leining of Melrose follows March 28.

ONE REASON WHY THEY DON'T COME

A small handful of clergymen in Greater Boston are alive enough to send their programs in brief to all of the Saturday newspapers. Others wonder why half and two-thirds of their pews are empty and that not enough come to keep on with Sunday evening services. As the philosopher said: "There is a reason."

BRIGHTON MEN'S CLUB

Joe Mitchell Chappel is honor guest and speaker at a special meeting of the Brighton Men's Club connected with the Brighton Congregational Church, next Wednesday evening.

Mr. Mitchell is advertised as having written over 5000 biographies, as a popular radio speaker, and lecturer of wide reputation. He is pointed to as having spoken at the banquet where the Ayer Cup was awarded to the transatlantic French fliers. Miss Mary Munroe, soprano will sing.

PRIZE SINGERS

At the First Presbyterian Church, Columbus ave. and Berkeley st., Boston, tomorrow the Boston Scottish Choral Society of 40 voices, under the direction of A. Cameron Steele, will assist Dr. Clifford at the evening worship with sacred songs. The congregation will sing several hymns written by the pastor. These ladies and lassies won first prize, Class B, at the eighth international musical festival at Symphony Hall, Feb. 23.

UNITY CHURCH

Next Sunday the Rev. Frederick A. Wiggin, D. D., will have a hand in continuous service as pastor of Unity Church, 296 Huntington ave., for 34 years. At 7:30 the church will properly celebrate this anniversary of its pastor's service. Several prominent speakers will be present. There will also be extra music. Dr. Wiggin has been longer a pastorate service of one church than any Protestant Boston clergyman.

MODERN CONVICTIONS

Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, son of the late Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard College, plans to deliver another sermon tomorrow morning on "The Larger Thought of God." Dr. Eliot says:

The modern American in forming his religious convictions cannot escape asking of himself these questions: Why do men seek the Divine in the irrational and the magical? Is God a conscious mind and spirit to which we are akin? Is there purpose and sympathy in the universe? Or is it just dynamic air going it blind? Is the universe kindly or indifferent? Is God personal and immediate? Atheism may evade the difficult problem of evil, but how about the problem of good? These questions Dr. Eliot will answer in his sermon on Sunday morning. This is the fourth sermon in a series on the religious convictions of a modern American.

Whole Town Adopts Catholic Faith

A report coming from Taining, North China, states that a council has been enacted similar to what is recounted in the acts of the Apostles. An account as printed in the Pilot gives the story in brief:

"The Rt. Rev. Evariste Cheng, Vicar Apostolic of Taining in Northern China, explained the doctrines of the Catholic Church to a group of 5000 pagans of the town of Tchangkaol. The town, which has a population of 7000, requested, through its leaders, to be received as a unit into the Church.

With the Bishop were two priests and 40 members of the Catholic Action Society. To introduce the new group of converts four catechism schools have been inaugurated under one priest and seven lay helpers.

Original Symphony Artist Dies at 88

The "wobble meter," the new machine developed to test fatigue in humans, shows that children between 10 and 11 years tire the least. Read about this unusual device in the American Weekly section of tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

FEDERATION REPORTS ON COAL

Mines in the United States could furnish almost twice as much coal as at present of all worked continuously through the year.

This fact among many other revelations has been dug out by a commission of research and education of the Federal Council of Churches. From this situation it is a natural conclusion that the coal market is about 50 per cent of capacity to produce, and that, therefore, employes are busy on an average but little over one half their working days. The commission also has discovered that keen competition helps to keep wages at a low figure. Railroads it was found are charging more per ton mile for short hauls than for long hauls.

All clergymen who subscribe for the Federal Council Information Bureau have been provided with a digest of this Colorado study, and are made welcome to use the facts as they see fit.

TRAVELS 3000 MILES TO KILL

A Reporter's Story of a Famous Maine Murder Case

By BERT FORD

(Who Worked on the Case as a Reporter)

(The first two instalments in this strange case told how Benjamin H. Taylor, a native of Iowa, travelled 3000 miles from Mexico City to slay James D. Hallen on the outskirts of Portland, Me., Sept. 8, 1926. Turner retained Hallen to defend him while a prisoner in prison in Mexico City charged with the murder of a Mexican mining partner. Turner claims he gave Hallen a $1200 retainer and that Hallen never moved to defend him.)

Unusual features marked the trial of Benjamin H. Turner, the "Mystery Man from Mexico," for the murder of James D. Hallen, lawyer and promoter of Falmouth Foreside, Me.

Two women served on the murder jury for the first time in the history of New England. One served as foreowman. The other had the distinction of being the first woman ever to serve with her husband in a capital case hereabouts.

The first woman pilot of a murder jury was Miss Gladys Jordan, daughter of Dr. Lester Jordan of Raymond. Miss Jordan had served on a civil jury, and as secretary to the attorney-general, was familiar with legal procedure.

JURY LOCKED UP

The married couple on the panel were Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Haskell of Windham.

As the jury was locked up during the trial, it was necessary at night to isolate the two women members. Mrs. Beulah Skinner, a court matron, watched over Miss Jordan and Mrs. Haskell.

Miss Jordan, cultured, slim and of a highly nervous temperament stood the strain in Judge Chapman's session of Cumberland county superior court, in Portland remarkably well, until Turner told his story on the witness stand. The young defendant was so coldly blunt in his description of the killing of Hallen on the latter's front lawn, so snappish and defiant, so utterly devoid of contrition, that Miss Jordan collapsed after adjournment.

She was sent to Maine General hospital and treated for an acute case of nerves, and, though pale and rather shaky, was in her seat as "skipper" of the panel next day. Mrs. Emma Haskell, older finisher and more tranquil, weathered the ordeal as calmly as any of her male colleagues.

On the witness stand, Turner gave eloquent expression to his strange life philosophy. Miss Jordan and Mrs. Haskell and male jurors admitted after the trial that they had sympathy for the young man until he took the stand and defiantly announced that he felt no remorse for what he had done and that he would kill Hallen a thousand times over.

Turner in substance declared that he had the moral right to slay Hallen under the circumstances. He made it clear that he felt he was justified.

This unusual spectacle seemed to the lay mind to raise serious doubt as to the young Iowan's sanity. But prior to the trial experts had examined him and pronounced him sane and responsible for his act.

Once he began the recital of his acts to the jury, Turner kicked over the legal traces. He paid not the slightest heed to his counsel, Judge Joseph E. F. Connelly and Atty. Harry C. Libby. He trampled on court conventions and his own constitutional rights.

NO APOLOGIES

He defiantly declined to make excuses or apologies, to side-step or to soft pedal. He made a clean breast of everything. Color came to his pale, sad face. His small frame seemed imbued with a new and abnormal vigor. A packed courtroom, in which women and girls predominated, was thrilled. Women shivered at Turner's cold-blooded account of his shooting of Hallen.

What a contrast to the young Adventist, pacifist and conscientious objector, who shuddered at the thought of killing an insect, fish or animal, yet who without qualm or conscientious murdered two men.

Yet withal a young man of high ideals and scruples who would not rob another of a penny, nor shirk on the job. Turner, the confessed killer, worked a year after his liberation from a Mexican prison to pay up debts, including $2000, before deliberately taking the trail to kill Hallen on the outskirts of Portland. He said he shrank from the thought of odium resulting from unpaid bills. Turner was a medley of contradictions.

Atty.-Gen. Raymond Fellows introduced Dr. Forrest C. Tyson, superintendent of the State Hospital at Augusta, as the sole rebuttal witness for the State.

Q—What do you say as to Turner's personality, doctor? A—Turner is a young man of unusual intelligence and of high character, both ethical and moral, with a religious standard and strong convictions. He knew it was impossible to obtain redress through the courts in this instance. He felt morally right, though legally at fault. He is scrupulously conscientious, not a good mixer and does not adapt himself to society.

Q—Was he sane on the day of the shooting? A—I think he was.

Q—Whether or not there is the slightest doubt as to his sanity, then or now? A—I have no doubt in my mind.

SUSPECTED INSANITY

Under cross-examination by Judge Connolly, senior counsel for Turner, Dr. Tyson admitted that he first suspected the accused might be suffering from dementia praecox but after observation was convinced that the prisoner manifested no symptoms of insanity.

Q—Don't you think there is something wrong about a man who shoots down a man and then telephones the police? A—Yes, but Turner is no ordinary murderer who shot for gain.

Q—Turner thought he was doing right so far as he was concerned? A—Yes.

Q—But didn't such an act prove a mental disturbance? A—On the contrary, I consider that it showed careful, deliberate planning.

Q—Do you think then that his claim was fiction to bluff the jury? A—I don't think it ever entered his mind that he was going to bluff the jury.

Q—Then he believed he was doing right? A—He felt justified in doing what he did.

Q—When was Turner taken to the State Hospital for observation? A—October 28, and remained until February 2.

Q—Did you think him a man of rigid and high ideals? A—Yes.

Q—Will you describe the difference between Turner and a fanatic? A—A fanatic or idealist sees things out of proportion to their value. At first thought Turner might have been moved by a grandiose motive.

Q—Didn't Turner so view himself? A—I thought he did at first, but after talking to him I changed my opinion. I found that he expressed a different attitude. He had no systematic delusion. His pride and personal feelings had been injured. He felt he had been extremely humiliated by Hallen, and he sought revenge as his only way to get justice.

Q—Did he think society would be better off without Hallen? A—Yes.

(The fourth instalment on Monday will give in detail Turner's thrilling story as he told it on the witness stand.)

HORSEWHIPPER HAS WITNESS

Brockton, March 21 — Declaring he could produce a witness Monday to prove the horsewhipping justifiable," counsel for Mrs. Kathrine Morrill, 45, charged with whipping Mrs. Mae Andrews on Main st. asked a continuance of the case in district court today.

The postponement was granted by Judge William G. Rowe. Mrs. Morrill who is charged with assault and battery, was in court today, but Mrs. Andrews, having been informed a continuance would be asked did not appear.

The statement of Atty. Edward N. Dahlborg for the defendant indicated Mrs. Morrill will defend herself by citing Mrs. Andrews' alleged friendship for her husband. Dahlborg told the court his witness would prove "mitigating circumstances."

Fatal Italian Air Crash a Mystery

Rome, March 21 (AP)—A commission named to inquire into the fatal accident near Pisa which ended the lives of three of Italy's most famous airmen Thursday, reported today that it was impossible to determine the cause of the sea crash in which Col. Children Who RUN ON "ALL FOURS" like a bear!

NOT all babies creep. Some travel on "all fours." They take to it naturally, and go very fast. Some run faster than their parents can walk and much faster than any children can creep.

A study of these little "quadrupeds" has been made by a modern scientist, and the high spots of his findings are set forth in an article appearing in next week's American Weekly.

If you have a baby who runs on "all fours," waste no worry on him. Most such babies are brighter than average, and all of them eventually learn to walk upright. Their early style of travel, called scientifically a reversion to the habits of our remote, pre-human ancestors, is forsaken with their babyhood.

Lady. (To man sitting next to her on an Arborway car) Pardon me. Aren't you the man with the little boy who lives next door to me?

Grouch: I don't know. It depends on who you are.

Lady: Well, I'm the lady who lives next door to you.

Grouch: What little boy?

Lady: Haven't you a little boy?

Grouch: No—that is—not that I'm aware of. What about the little boy?

Lady: It wasn't really about the little boy, but about the window in your house—but it doesn't matter now because if you haven't got a little boy, then it couldn't be the window in your house.

Grouch: No, I haven't got a little boy.

TODAY'S TRUE STORY

INTERRUPTED KISSES

Her Twin to Blame

DICK WELDON had walked the streets for three hours before he turned his steps toward the building that housed Ward True. Dick was desperate. He had to talk to somebody. He knew he would find Ward, with his feet on a chair, smoking his old briar, as usual. He knew Ward would welcome him with a smile, would lay aside his book, refill his pipe and trot out his optimism.

Ward studied his pal silently for moments. He didn't like Dick's pallor, the drawn look about his eyes. But finally he broke the quiet with a cheery inquiry.

"I didn't believe there was a woman in the world who could disturb me in the slightest. But there was. Fate, or whatever you call it, threw her in my path two weeks ago. Cosmos Steel had a contract with Universal Products, on the floor below us in the Trust Building. I went there when I took some papers down for Mr. Martin.

"I was going up the stairs to her place on the third floor. I had just reached the top step, was turning to the right, when—well, I could hardly believe my eyes. There they stood, right under a light, just outside the apartment door. He had his arms around her. She was on tiptoe—kissing him again and again. She saw me, too, over her shoulder. But brazen, I tell you! Why she looked back at me as though she had never seen me before. Why, she never even cried out, not a word. Well, now you know it all."

"I wouldn't feel like that," Ward began. "There may be some mistake. It may have been her brother she was kissing."

"Girls don't kiss brothers like that," retorted Dick. "Anyone just looked at me insolently, hadn't even the decency to look guilty."

"Maybe she wasn't," persisted Ward. "Have you called her up—sent her—asked for an explanation?"

Dick jumped to his feet. "See her—call her up?! Why, do you think I am? I never want to see her again!"

Ward smiled as he thought. "My boy, that's the thing you most want in the world." Pacifically Ward managed to learn Margie's name and address. And, if Dick had not been so self-centered, he might have seen an expression in Ward's eye like that of a conspirator.

Nevertheless, 9 o'clock found him at Ward's rooms, where he was welcomed with open arms. "Snap out of it, Dick," said his friend. "You're going to meet a lot of happy people tonight. It's up to you to have a good time—whatever may have happened. Who knows what a night may bring?"

Dick was sitting in one of the lounging rooms off the dance floor wishing he had never come Ward and Margie as blue as indigo. He was interrupted by the entrance of Ward—with a girl. She wore a gown glittering with silver sequins and a silver mask.

"This is the last dance," said Ward. "I'll never forgive you, Dick, if you don't grant me this one favor—just this last waltz with Miss—well——since the unmasking is yet to come I'll have to introduce her as Miss Mystery."

For the sake of friendship Dick knew he'd have to yield. Without much graciousness he arose and bowed to the girl. She took his arm. "See you right after it," said Ward. "I have this last one with Molly. So long, it has gone. The orchestra burst into the Blue Danube.

The girl was as silent as Dick while they danced. At last she apparently could stand it no longer. "I'm quite tired," she began. "Would you mind sitting out the rest of it?"

"Not at all," said Dick regnedly. She steered him to a small alcove separated from the main floor by wine-colored drapes. As she sank to a seat, she sighed and then exclaimed, "I can't stand it any more." She tore off her mask and raised her eyes to Dick's.

"Margie!" he cried, springing to his feet. "Why," she said, "her fingers clasped his sleeve. "Sit down," she begged. "I want to tell you something, Dick. You've been broken-hearted since you deserted me." Dick laughed stiffly. "Didn't you have something—comfort you?" he asked maliciously. "No," she said firmly, "I did—not."

"No," she said earnestly, "you didn't."

Dick started to rise again. Once more she clutched his sleeve. "You—you jumped at conclusions, Dick," she said. "That night you were to come, my sister Ruth dropped in unexpectedly from Philadelphia. Her husband had to go right back and she was dissing him good-by. She was on her way upstown to visit a girl friend."

"I—I've been a dumb-bell!" exclaimed Dick. "Can you forgive me, Margie?"

For answer she arose, put her arms around his neck and looked fondly at him. And then Dick repeated the memorable scene he had witnessed in the hallway.

"In the Spring"

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

IN THE SPRING "a young man's fancy," the famous Fancy, runs away with him. He indulges in a long-anguished-for top-coat that he feared to buy at any other season, sheds his heavy, sad, gray Winter coloring, and steps out, either a smart blue guardsman or a canary polo-fan. His heart is high, and his eyes rotate toward pretty girls!

Often he's in LOVE—if not with just a girl, with all of life; in love with the feeling of walking down the Avenue or the country road, with his fun, his job, his folks, his hobby, and the new year tearing itself from the violent arms of March. The sky looks mighty promising in the Spring! The heart throws off the load of the past year and capers in its first youth again Lambs gambol; and so does the young man's spirit

If it's a girl he's in love with—IN LOVE—he writes poetry, even as George Washington did. He runs mad in flower-shops, and strikes the pale little flower-man speechless. He remembers that violets are for thoughts —so, of course, he must have those. He remembers that she loves roses—pink, with corsia and pale-blue velvet ribbon—and so he shuts his eyes and orders a tremendous basket of pink roses. But it's Spring And the Spring-flowers are enough to goggle one's eyes out! What but Spring-flowers, so lacy, so frothy, so delicate, so infantine, so rainbow-hued, so fragile, should a man send the girl he loves in the SPRING? So he'll also have three. Some for color, some for sentiment, some for their darling beauty, he buys; and all—for love!

Spring. Oh, lovely time of marbles, and "jacks" and love, and a bloom on the whole world.

When you are very young—you know, fresh as a daisy—new as fresh milk, and as unwise as the young calf that drinks it, all seasons look pretty much alike. But when you are a little older, and then a little older than THAT, Spring begins to grow precious.

Danger Lurks in Kisses for Baby

By DR. COPELAND.

RECENTLY I received a letter requesting me to write on "the dangers of kissing babies on the lips." Of course, nobody should abuse a baby this way. The dangers attached to this custom are numerous and too little attention is paid to them.

Infants differ markedly from adults in that they do not possess "immunity" to disease. They are easily infected by ailments that would not touch the adult.

Dr. Copeland

By immunity is meant the power to ward off disease. The protection against a given disease is obtained in two ways. One way is by actually having the disease. The other is by being exposed to the disease in such mild form as not to contract it. In medicine these means of protection are spoken of as "active" and "passive" immunity.

Immunity may be obtained by injection of certain bacterial products, which build up a defense of the body against certain diseases. This is demonstrated in the inoculations against diphtheria and scarlet fever. It is accomplished in similar fashion when you are vaccinated against small pox or inoculated against typhoid fever.

Infants are daily exposed to different forms of bacteria. As they grow older they build up a defense against these germs of disease. This defense is further strengthened by the vaccinations and injections I have just mentioned.

If the baby is exposed to germs that it has not encountered before, or if these germs be in overwhelming numbers, then there is trouble. If the baby is in poor health that day, it will succumb to whatever infection comes along.

Kissing the baby's lips affords an excellent means of transferring germs from your lips. Usually germs are present on your face and lips. Not harmful to you, but of great danger to the infant. Adults, unknown to themselves, are sometimes carriers of diseases. Why subject the baby to these dangers?

It must be admitted that it is a temptation to kiss the sweet baby. Too often we forget the dangers attached to this practice. If you must kiss the baby apply your lips to the forehead or head, but not to the infant's lips. Never permit a stranger to kiss your child, certainly, and better still, include yourself and the rest of the family in the prohibition.

Make-Believe -:- By Faith Baldwin

Lou settled she would be the happiest woman in the world, she thought, and the most excited.

"Ooh!" said Mary Lou to Larry in a small voice. "I suppose I can learn something! But business school takes time and money. I guess," she added on a stifled giggle, "I'll end up as mother's helper or as a secretary. Charge it, Modom?" asked Mary Lou in an affected tone of voice.

"Look here, Mary Lou, marry me—I haven't much but we can get along, somehow," said Larry abruptly, and his own voice sounded strange to him. "I don't want you behind a counter or gallivanting around by yourself. You—you are a dear little idiot and you'd get into all sorts of jams. You marry me, Mary Lou, and I'll take care of you!" he ended, sternly.

Won't Marry

Mary Lou stared at him speechless. Then the bright tears welled to her eyes and fell . . . round drops sliding down her flushing cheek

"Am I so—distasteful to you," he asked, in dismay.

"No—no—you're the best friend I have on earth," choked Mary Lou, "and—and—Oh, Larry, what a lamb you are! Asking me to marry you when—when you're so ambitious, so anxious to get ahead . . . asking me to come and be a burden, a regular old millstone. You don't want me, really, Larry, you don't love me, dear—"

"But . . ." began Larry, helplessly.

"No, you don't! Now . . . not me marrying you. And I don't love you—that way. Every other way, yes. But not . . . not that, Larry, you know I won't marry you—but—I do thank you for asking me," said Mary Lou with a quaint sort of ceremony.

He took her cold little hands in his own and leaned close to the fragrant, rounded cheek, the crop of curling red-gold hair.

"I want to take care of you!" he said stubbornly.

Chivalry isn't dead, after all Mary Lou shook her head

"I'll have to take care of myself," she cried out, "and it's high time I learned how. Get me a job Larry, any kind of a job and I'll be so grateful to you. And now, for mercy's sake, go home."

She turned a little and brushed a very small kiss across his dark, freckled cheek, and got to her feet

The following day, being Sunday, Mary Lou, Billy and the Sandersons Journeyed out to Oakdale, Long Island, to see Grandmother Jennings and talk over their plans.

Would Accept

On the train, as Howard endeavored to restrain his small son from hanging out of the window, while demanding to ride with the engineer, "Why can't I ride with the engineer, Daddy?" Clara and Mary Lou sat together and soberly discussed the details of closing up the little rented house, details which would fall to Mary Lou's lot to attend to as Clara would have to keep on with her position and break in her successor until practically the last minute.

For it had finally been decided that the Sandersons would keep the office, that Billy would go to his grandmother's and that Mary Lou would go with him, remaining until such time as she could make other arrangements.

Mary Lou, looking with blind blue eyes at the autumnal landscape, was trying hard to be extremely practical and matter-of-fact. Now and then, in a small red notebook, with a pencil stub, she managed to make shaky, scrawly notes while she questioned Clara severely, as to what would be stored, what must be sold and what would be packed.

The Sandersons took over mail the first week in November and there was a great deal to do.

"It's going to be pretty bad," she said, "leaving Billy. I—I sometimes wonder how I can do it. I get—panicky. But you? If only I knew you were to be with him permanently, settled—or with someone I knew and trusted. I feel dreadfully about it, Mary Lou, as if . . as if I were failing you a bit."

Her clever, brown eyes were bright with unusual tears. Mary Lou gave her arm a little pinch.

Get Along

Don't be silly . . . I'll get along—grand!" said Mary Lou. "Something will turn up, see if. It doesn't," she went on breathlessly, "there's always an adventure, just around the corner. Of course," she went on, more soberly, while writing in the red book, "remember to store Clara's Hudson seal," "of course it's a darned shame I haven't any marketable talent! Still, there's always a possibility of being a housekeeper to some delightful rich old gentleman who would die in a couple of years and leave me three millions and a house at Palm Beach," added Mary Lou, laughing, but with her incorrigible sense that life was after all, an exciting fairy story and herself in the very midst of it. At that, fairy stories had a way of plunging their heroines into all sorts of happy situations and curious escapades, but there was always respite just ahead, and even a Prince Charming

LARGE VOLUME TRADING SEEN ON THE WAY

By FRANK H. MELOON

Wall and State St. leaders look for a large volume of trading, although successions of 5,000,000-share days are not generally expected until business improvement gets under way in a marked fashion. News of brokerage offices expansions now appears daily. Meanwhile, Stock Exchange authorities' plans for a $10,000,000 addition to the building on Broad street indicate their belief in big ger and broader markets as time passes.

Thomas L. Chadbourne

Am-American sugar committee, tells us he believes enforcement of the world sugar agreement will be under way by May Day There is an old simi larity between the choice of Mr. Chadbourne to lead the sugar men out of the wo-ds and that of Walker D. Hines to run the Gov ernment during the world war. Both are multi-millionaire. A few years ago was the so-called "Master Mind" planning New York traction mergers while Mr Hines was U S director general of railroads

Will history again repeat? Drop in the call money rate to 1 per cent, the lowest level reached since June, 1915, prompted the question from a broker who is a close student of past developments and their after affects marketwise. In this respect he pointed out, that prior to June, 1915, rail stocks had declined steadily and other groups were under pressure. Immediately following the reduction in the call money rate to 1 per cent, however, the trend of the market reversed itself with the result that both rails and industrials scored substantial recoveries before the end of the year.

Unofficial denial is made today of rumored Ford plan to quote prices for cars as delivered instead of FOB Detroit. Any such change announcement is expected soon, and will be more favorable than expected. Auburn report for this quarter will show about 50 cents a share if usual write-offs for new models, etc., are made. Rumor of merger of Johns Manville and American Radiator has been revived.

PROFIT-TAKING IS ABSORBED IN WALL ST.

Setbacks were mostly limited to a point or so, with some specialties on which dividends are regarded as uncertain singled out, for bear selling.

SHORTS STICK TO POSITION

Profit-taking sales were to have been expected at the end of a week of persistent, if at times uncertain, advance. Selling of this order was reasonably accompanied by bear pressure, as shorts, despite their recent lack of notable success, showed subsequently maintaining their position.

Westinghouse Electric and U. S. Industrial Alcohol were depressed about 4 points. Westinghouse's orders are reported to have picked up a little this month, but Wall st. expects first quarter earnings to fall short of the quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share.

The company has cash and readily marketable securities amounting to about $10 a share, however, so it could easily continue payments at the current rate if directors saw fit.

A wide assortment of prominent issues declined a point or two, including U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Gas, North American, Electric Power & Light, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda, DuPont, American Can, Radio, Baltimore & Ohio, Public Service of N. J. and Byers.

National Surety, which recently shot up 9 points on a favorable judicial decision, a $3,000,000 suit, reacted 4. General Railway Signal dipped as much and Air Reduction, Allied Chemical and Eastman lost 3 or more.

STONE & WEBSTER UP

A few specialties moved contrary to the trend. Auburn closed 8 points higher. Stone & Webster sold up 4 points to a new high and retained part of its gain.

Houston Oil Vanadium, Freeport Texas and Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron gained 2 or more.

Weakend news was mixed. While employment has been gaining steadily since last January, there are indications that any large reduction of the total unemployed has yet been eliminated.

On the other hand, announcement of a $2 a ton increase in prices by Illinois Steel was announcing, by Illinois Steel of Chicago price into line with the $1 advance recently announced by Carnegie Steel and tends to confirm predictions that the upturn will be made fairly general.

Estimates of mill operations in the Youngstown area for next week show little if any change from the rate of 61 per cent. of capacity.

Motor production continues to gain and Detroit reports indicate that further substantial increases are planned for April. A report that General Motors has ordered large supplies of copper, cotton, zinc and other commodities was interpreted as indicating a belief that commodity prices were around bottom levels.

BUCK TELLS HOW HE ACQUIRED SMALLEST ELEPHANT

FANNING

With GEORGE UNDERWOOD

CHINA BOY POLLOCK A BLOOMIN' HERO!

GENE TUNNEY, retired world's heavyweight champion, came out of the Marines. Our own Jack Sharkey was a jolly sailorman when he first took up the gentle art of scrambling ears. Some of our greatest box fighters came out of Uncle Sam's land and sea forces. Who knows but a future champion will be among the youngsters who will go over the top in next Monday night's New England Division Army & Navy Championships in the Boston Garden?

F. C. BILLARD

From all over New England the doughboys, leathernecks and gobs are gathering for the big battle of the upholstered fists. The championships are open to enlisted men of the army, coast guard, marine corps and navy stationed in New England and almost every outfit or ship is sending on one or more entrants.

THE TOURNAMENT is attracting so much attention that Rear Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard, is coming on from Washington to see the punch slinging and other high officers in both branches of the service will attend. Chief Boo'n's Mate Grimm tells us that gold braid and epaulets will be so thick around the ringside that you will not be able to cast a dirty look in any direction without hitting a general or admiral.

That will be good news to the fair ones. For, oh how the sweeties love a uniform. Especially a nice, shiny dress uniform decorating a broth of a by-cha looks as if he could lick his weight in wildcats. So, fellers, if you bring your Ophelia to next Monday night's scraps, look out that some rosy-cheeked shavetail or curly-haired middy doesn't steal her affections away.

ABOUT THE best known of the service champions who will be seen in action on Monday is Ted Coolidge, storekeeper, third class, from the New London base. Ted has held three navy championships, middleweight, light heavy and heavyweight. He has fought as a professional here under Jackie Williams' direction.

"CHINA BOY"

Other Coast Guard champs coming from w London are Kid Burrows, Walter Cross, Penston, Frankie Chestlock, Sid Taylor Tony Mangusi. The most interesting of warriors is China Boy Pollock. He's a amin' hero!

China Boy Pollock got his nickname for distinguished service in China. He won the ny middleweight championship of Chinese ine in competition with men of other warse of the United States and Great Britain. gained greater distinction by saving a linese general from drowning. For his life-saving feat Pollock was sented the Chinese Medal of Honor and a silver life-saving medal.

MILTON GASTON, who, despite he is with the lowly Red Sox, is of the greatest pitchers in the majors; Waite Hoyt and Ted Lyons all going to suffer from the new balk rule. Waite Hoyt goes so as to claim that the new rule directly was aimed at the trio mened. Waite says the magnates are forked-tongued and, while they id have the public believe they are doing everything to help the hers, they are still conniving to aid batsmen and baserunners. ng other things Waite says:

MILT GASTON

"For the last 10 or 12 years there has gone forth a message to have the balk rule enforced. Some umpires take their jobs seriously and call balks right, left and center. The interpretation this year is supposed to help base runners so there will be a return to the old hit-and-run and sacrifice days.

"When I am on the mound I have several things to think about. The base runner's only worry is about me. His job is to watch me and study my habits on the mound. I have to watch him and the batter.

"By a lot of practice I have been able to hold runners on first. The runner watches the pitcher's rear foot. In throwing to base the rear foot moves first. By constant practice I developed a slight shift that was little more than a gesture. Still, it was a step which is required by the rules. Umpires used to rush at me and tell me I'd have to take a step. I told them I did, and also proved it to them. They demanded I take a longer step, but they could not show me any set distance in the rule book.

"The new interpretation refers only to first base. A pitcher can ow to any other base without taking a step. Ted Lyons is a master throwing to first base and I don't think either he or Gaston violates balk rule."

Outside of Red Beatty and his injured ack, most of the Bruin players are all set and rarin' to go in tonight's game with the Bruins and next week's playoffs with Les Canadiens. The back which Beatty injured when George Mantha tossed him up against the boards in Montreal is much better but still stiff and painful. Hinchman's infected tooth still are giving him trouble and Galbraith's ticker is bothersome. Marty Barry enters tonight's game with the scar left from seven recently takes stitches in his chin. Oh, yes, hockey is a nice, gentle pastime!

RED BEATTY

VINCENT SIRECI, the young welter who fought in the semi-windup in the Harvey-Jeby match in New York last night, attributes his punching power to abnormal development of wrists and forearms, obtained by milking goats . . . BA-A-A-A!!! . . . Says when he was a kid he had charge of 200 to 300 goats and had to milk them twice a day . . . That goat herd probably grew five or ten every time Vincent told of it . . . The favorite hold of George Godfrey, who reformed and turned wrestler, is, according to Dan Parker, the shufflin' along hold . . . Old Gawgs just picks 'em up and lays 'em down . . . Speaking of Dan Parker, Dan pulled some classic Joe Wall stuff the other day . . . Joe hands some advice to young ball players . . . Read it and weep.

"When youse take a workout at this time of the year, don't take off your sweater because you'll expire and catch cold in the bronnikal tubes, which will bring about a high fever-aroma. That may lead to exclamatory rheumatism, or may even cause a fellow to pull a tenderloin in his leg. Lots of guys gets ammonia or the influential from workin' up a sweat and lettin' the respiration dry up on them. Then if you go home while still hot and perspirin' a mess is made into you, youse'll probably get discrepancy. A fellow should take some extra size every day for all wots and no play saves a stitch in time. Battlin' out fungoes is good exize also for the biseps but you shouldn't overdo it for it's a strain on the cognac muscles of the heart. Outside of dat the only advice I have to offer young ball players is to obtain from all spiritual liquors and remember the old slogan, 'Don't get hoisted, kid.'"

JOHN McGRAW is reported to have got stiff knees attempting to teach the Giants to bat . . . Has had many a headache teaching 'em to play . . . His knees are as painful now that when he sends the Giants through practice he groans, "Remember, boys, this hurts me worse than it does you" . . . Who said the Dodgers were slow? In an exhibition game with the Cardinals O'Doul, Bisonette and Allen all scored on a single by Lopez . . . Charles F. Adams in presenting Ching Johnson with the cup awarded him for being the most valuable Ranger player, said: "I want to give Johnson something. He is very popular in Boston."—Sure Ching is popular here—as popular as the smallpox.

Baby Pachyderm Just 34 Inches in Height Goes Into Movies

Hunting for the smallest elephant in the world is a task to give pause to even a hardy campaigner like Frank Buck. In today's chapter of "Bring 'Em Back Alive" the author describes his acquisition of Baby Boo, the smallest of small pachyderms.

Each chapter of this thrilling narrative—one of which is printed in the Boston Evening American every day—is a story in itself, complete and interesting.

CHAPTER XX

It all started when an animal dealer in Los Angeles cabled me in Singapore asking me to secure for him a female baby elephant under three feet in height. The animal was wanted for work in the movies.

This may not sound like a very difficult assignment. It was every bit of that, however. In fact, I was being asked to produce an elephant shorter in stature than any in the whole United States. If the cable had read, "We want elephant smaller than any now in captivity" it would have meant exactly the same thing as asking me to secure one less than three feet tall.

However, an order is an order, and I was more than willing to make a determined effort to secure what the Los Angeles dealer wanted. I had hundreds of other specimens to collect, and, in the process of gathering them together, I planned to make inquiries wherever I went—my program promising to carry me practically all over the map of Asia—in an effort to locate a trunked shrimp short enough to meet the specifications.

ALL ON LOOK OUT

All, who accompanied me on this trip, was instructed to be on the lookout for small elephants and to give me any and all information he picked up.

In Siam we heard that the keddhah waita north of the town of Alcatar, with whom I had traded in the past, had some very small elephants in his sheds. However, when I arrived to inspect his stock, I found that he had nothing under four feet eight inches. Wherever I went it was the same. Small elephants were available but nothing under four or four and a half feet.

A few weeks later, Ali and I were in Sumatra scouting around for pythons, gibbons, binturongs and other specimens for which I had orders. We were at Domji, a port on the west coast of Sumatra, north of Palembang. The news of my arrival had spread and several native trappers sought me out with their wares, most of them specimens that were undesirable.

After I had turned down a number of animals, reptiles and birds that I did not want, I was approached by a Batik native who had a few specimens that were worth picking up, although they were not important contributions. Setting down in front of the nipa house where I was staying the two baskets that he bore on his shoulders on a carrying pole, he proceeded to show me his wares.

TRADED FOR TOBACCO

One basket contained a pair of fine big hornbills, the other housed a big monitor lizard, a five-foot creature that was rolled up in the container with its feet trussed up over its back.

These specimens were in excellent condition, and, as I knew I could dispose of them, I was glad to pick them up.

"Berapa?" I asked, pointing to the hornbills. ("How much?")

The reply was a question. Did the tuan have any tobacco?

I nodded my head. I always carry plenty of tobacco, not only because I smoke a good deal, but because it is frequently very enthusiasts had been streaming toward the banws of the Thames since early morning, lining the river edge along all four and a quarter miles of the "U" shaped course.

CAMBRIDGE IS WINNER OVER OXFORD

Tin whistles, auto horns and the shrill cries of the cockneys from England's limehouse had been filling the air with a bedlam of sound, but all became quiet as the two crews were seen through.

Oxford Wins Toss and Chooses Middle Course

Ted Brocklebank, accredited the most finished oarsman in England and Cambridge's winning stroke for the last two years, immediately sent the light Blues into the lead. At 200 yards it was two feet, at the half-mile a quarter length and at the mile the same distance.

At the two boats swept under the Hammersmith bridge, the mile and a half mark, Cambridge was out in front by a length and a half and a half-mile further they had increased it to two.

Here the big Oxford eight began to draw up on the light Blues. At Chiswick Eyot, the two and a half-mile mark, they had cut Cambridge's lead to a single length.

Three Lengths Ahead at Three-Mile Mark

Brocklebank increased the stroke and the light blue shell began to pull away again. At the three-mile mark it was three lengths in the lead.

Oxford tried desperately to catch the smoothly flowing Cambridge shell but the 'boat slid past the Judges' line with the light blue a good two lengths and a quarter in the lead.

The time was 19 minutes 28 seconds, 57 seconds behind the record set in 1913 by a great Oxford eight.

The victory sustained the opinions of the critics who have watched the two crews through their seven weeks' training period.

11 to Run in $140,000 Handicap

Agua Caliente, Mex., March 21—All indications point to 21 starters in the $140,000 Agua Caliente handicap tomorrow.

Up, the Derby winner, was removed from the tilt after the running of the Carricito Handicap, in which he failed to stay the distance. James N. Crofton, his owner, believes the colt has had enough.

The English menace, Challenger, 2d, also was taken out. Challenger, 2d has failed to run to his works. In addition, the rider selected for him, Willie Johns, drew an indefinite suspension, leaving Brannigan's barn without a satisfactory pilot.

Schooner remains in. He is looking for mud, and will not start, according to trainer L. O. Lee, unless rain falls by tomorrow. Schooner becomes 100 per cent improved on a wet track.

Dr. Swaney may be a starter. J. W. Marchbank, California breeder who owns him, is anxious to see the colors represented.

Horse	Weight	Jockey
Schooner	122	A. Pincher
The Cascaw	118	W. Garner
Up	118	W. Kern
Vingo	116	R. Cunningham
Miss Hal	116	S. O'Donnell
Prince Rio	116	J. Gilbert
Sea Beam	129	F. Caltieri
Elwood	118
Dolmeney	98	M. Robic
Pucky Play	116	D. Privett
Alexander Pantages	122	J. Pollard
Sandy Port	116	L. Corbett
Lady Broadcast	113	G. Wentz

Poehler's All Stars Break World Record

Paul Poehler's All Stars broke the world's record of 1944 for a three string team total in the Boston pin match with the Oxford Club of Lynn at Lynn last night. The Poehler All Stars rolled 1973 for a total and broke their own record.

BOROTRA PLAYS BELL IN NET FINALS

New York, March 21 (US)—R. Berkeley Bell, 22-year-old Texan, defeated Frank Shields, of Scarsdale, N. Y., in the semi-final round of the national indoor tennis championship tournament at the Seventh Regiment Armory and will meet Jean Borotra of France, today for the championship.

The match went four sets, 9—11, 6—4, 12—10, 6—4 and lasted 2 hours 38 minutes of actual playing time.

Borotra and Christian Boussus of France, won the national doubles indoor tennis championship by defeating Pierre Landry, of France, and Clifford Butler, of New Orleans, in four sets, 7—5, 8—4, 5—7, 6—4. The final round of the singles will bring together two foes who met in the first round of the national outdoor championships last September at Forest Hills. On that occasion, Bell was the victor in four sets.

Polo Pony Is Hero in Accident

San Mateo, Cal., March 21 (US)—Rube Williams, internationally famous polo star, was seriously injured here in a polo game between Cypress Point and Olympic Club teams. His pony stumbled on the field boundary boards, leaped over a box filled with spectators, and crashed into two parked automobiles.

Mrs. Cliff Weatherwax, wife of one of the players engaged in the contest and well known in San Francisco society, was in the box and escaped injury only by a quick dive to the floor of the enclosure.

Spectators of the accident gave full credit for averting a real tragedy to Fancy the bay mare polo pony on which Williams was mounted. The pony, stumbling, saw the spectators and risked his own life and that of his rider in the wild leap over the box rather than take a chance of injuring Mrs. Weatherwax or the others beside the field.

Did You Hear That

Frank Hogan of Somerville, New York Giants' great catcher, is trying to reduce but can't seem to lose an ounce; Shanty even has been told to eat no more bread and butter, but his girth hints that there is a bootlegger of the staff of life, in the Giants' camp; long walks were recommended, after practice, but Frank claimed he could hardly walk to the dining room, after the stiff workouts which John McGraw orders for the outsize backstop. . . . Paul Mackessy of Lynn, who so thoroughly learned his football from Coach Bill Joyce of Lynn Classical that he developed into one of the best ends of the season of 1930 at Brown and won the captaincy football for '31, is one of the star members of the Brown lacrosse team; . . . Dazzy Vance was hired to demonstrate the difference between the old and new baseballs when the camera man discovered that Daz had no uniform; Vance is holding out on the Robins and the management consequently won't issue the hurler a uniform; so an airplane was sent to Fort Myers, where the Robins were playing and a suit was borrowed for Dazzy . . . Temple U. football players work out on the roof of the new memorial hall at their college . . . Vinnie Richards, tennis pro and former Davis Cup team player is Frank Shields' mentor.

MITCHELL CUTS SQUAD DOWN TO 32

Sixteen baseball candidates were relieved of further practice with the Harvard squad yesterday when Coach Fred Mitchell pruned the group down to an even 32, including 10 pitchers, six catchers, 12 infielders, and four outfielders. Sixteen of those retained will make the southern trip three weeks hence.

Ben Ticknor, who for the past two years has been classed as an outfielder although he has on numerous occasions taken up duties in the pitcher's box, was retained as a pitcher.

Mitchell will probably use the former football captain in a dual role again this year. Ben has shown in-and-out performances on the mound, but his heavy stick work has assured him a place in the Harvard lineup.

King Levinsky to Meet Con O'Kelly

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, has been signed by Matchmaker Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A. to meet Con O'Kelley at the Arena on Tuesday night, March 31.

Mack closed the match with Mrs. Lena Levy, sister of the boxer. Mrs. Levy recently became manager of her brother when the latter broke with Ray Alvis.

The split between Levinsky and Alvis occurred following Kingfish's defeat at the hands of Tuffy Griffiths. Alvis accepted 50 per cent of the gate and guaranteed Griffiths $20,000. When the show only drew $53,000, Levinsky barely got training expenses.

Mrs. Levy has secured a manager's license from the Illinois Boxing Commission.

CALLAHAN WINS DECISION OVER BATTALINO

MACK HOLDS UP ANDY'S PURSE

By JACK CONWAY

Andy Callahan of Lawrence, New England lightweight champion, received the duke over Battalino after ten rounds of milling at the Boston Garden in a slow bout, and was marred by considerable holding. Battalino and Callahan were each offenders in this respect.

The decision of Referee Walsh and Judges Thomas Hurley and Ace Meninen was a fair one. Callahan was the aggressor in most of the rounds, did the cleanest punishing of the two.

Zeramby Beats Abella in Rugged Battle

Jake Zeramby, Lynn lightweight, added one more to his list of wins when he outscored Luis Abella, Filipino lightweight, in the semi-final of seven rounds.

It was the best bout of the show and had the crowd in an uproar most of the time.

Zeramby displayed the same form that enabled him to beat Routis, Fuller, Flowers and other sturdy opponents in Boston rings two years ago. He moved around the ring at a dazzling clip and punched brilliantly with both hands.

Abella took desperate chances in an effort to cut Jake down with a single punch. The little Filipino paraded in close quarters and punched away with both hands.

At times Zeramby would disregard all boxing knowledge and stand in the center of the ring and punch it out with Abella. The latter got a kick out of this style of warfare and seldom gave ground.

It is likely that Zeramby will be signed to meet either Sammy Fuller or Andy Callahan.

Tommy King Wins 33d Battle in a Row

Tommy King of Fall River scored his 33d straight win when he outscored Frankie Herlihy of Lynn in five-round bout.

Who Called 'Em 'Frails'?

Fair sex, yes, but isn't calling 'em the gentle sex getting a bit old fashioned? There's nothing gentle about the way Evelyn Hall of the Illinois Women's A. C. of Chicago is going at this hurdle. Evelyn is flying the fence like a frightened deer in this acme-of-action picture. You can spell it "dear," Mr. Compositor, if you want to.

BOY IS STAR OF TITLE SKATING CONTEST

The lad is competing in the junior group in the American championship contests. His every movement on the ice was watched with considerable interest by those present.

This morning the juniors conclude their competition, with the free skating, and tonight, at the big carnival, the feature performance of the two-day affair, the seniors bring to a close their title quest. At that time announcement will be made of the junior as well as senior championship winners. There is no session this afternoon.

Maribel Vinson of Wintonbury, Mr. Roger F. Turner of Milton and Miss Beatrix Loughran and Sherwin C. Badger of New York are defending champions. Miss Vinson is ladies' singles title-holder, Turner wears the man's singles crown and the Loughran-Badger duo holds the pairs championship.

Besides the championship events there are special features on the program, among them a children's Dutch number and Fanay, the unusual horse.

DR. FRALICK IS DEAD IN N. Y.

New York, March 21 (INS)—Leaders in the world of pugilism today mourned the death of Dr. Wilfred C. Fralick, noted surgeon and bone specialist, who died yesterday after an illness of several months.

Dr. Fralick's hobby was mending the injured hands of prizefighters. He had attended Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jack Sharkey and other ring stars.

Many Boston and New England friends mourn the passing of the noted Dr. Wilfred G. Fralick, the famous New York physician who died yesterday after an illness that followed two intestinal operations. Dr. Fralick operated on Jack Sharkey and one of his children. Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey, Max Schmelling, Harry Greb, Tiger Flowers, Johnny Risko and other champions were among the noted doctor's patients.

"Dr. Fralick not only was a great doctor but a warm friend."

Dr. Fralick was noted for his charity work. He had numerous millionaire patients. Sports followers tell of millionaires sitting for hours in Dr. Fralick's office waiting examinations and conference while the famous doctor was looking over some poor preliminary boxer.

Tribe in Need of Pitching Staff

By JOE CASHMAN

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 21—It becomes more apparent every day down here that the strength which the Braves have added to the infield and outfield isn't going to help them a whole lot this season unless the pitching improves considerably.

Manager Bill McKechnie realized before training started that his mound staff wouldn't be anything to rave about, but he never could have imagined that it would prove as weak as it has to date.

If he had, it is certain that he would have taken a paper loss in several deals to add a few fair flingers to the roster.

Bruce Cunningham alone of the veterans has looked like a big league twirler in the exhibition games. Inexperienced youngsters such as Bill McAfee, Regis LaMotey, Mike Delaney and Harold Gans have been far more effective than such regulars as Seibold, Cantwell, Frankhouse, Brandt, Zachary and Sherdel.

And no club can hope to get very far, regardless of how strong it may be at bat and afield, with only one good veteran and three or four promising, but green pitchers.

If the Tribe is to avoid being outdistanced very early in the race, all seven so-called regulars must round into top form in the next fortnight, and there is little indication at this writing that any, except Cunningham, can be counted upon to pitch effective ball for nine innings when the bell rings.

McKechnie was inclined to treat the mound situation lightly for a while, being confident that it would gradually improve, but he knows differently now and is badly worried about it.

He is giving everybody a day off today and has cancelled Tuesday's contest with the Athletics to relieve the burden on the few flingers who are in shape and he will stress himself and coaches Hank Gowdy and Duffy Lewis into service to throw 'em up in future batting drills.

N. Y. BOXERS IN GARDEN FRAYS

A team of six boxers will represent Fort Hamilton, N. Y., in the military boxing tournament at the Boston Garden on Monday night.

The entries of the New York team were received with the word that they will reach the Hub tomorrow afternoon. These youngsters are the pick of the post and have had considerable experience in and around New York.

They will have their work cut out for them as there are 20 entries from the Coast Guard station at the Coast Guard band from New London, Ct., will accompany the team from that station and will play during the tournament.

Teams from the Navy Yard in Charlestown and from the ships now at the yard have also entered teams along with a team of eight men picked from the various army posts of the local corps.

Prenn, German Net Champ, Suspended

Berlin, March 21 (AP)—Daniel Prenn, Germany's ranking tennis player, was suspended today until further notice by the presidium of the German Tennis Federation.

The decision was reached after the general secretary of the association had submitted a report of the Berlin court's recent decision in a libel suit which Prenn had brought against Prenn.

Prenn had called the company a liar in connection with its allegation that he had demanded money for using their racquets, whereupon the company sued and was upheld by the courts, which decided it was clear Prenn had demanded money.

VETERAN FIT FOR APRIL 19 MARATHON

By BILL CONNELL

Clarence DeMar of Keene, N. H., many times a winner of Marathons, this morning raced from Wellesley to the B. A. A. clubhouse on Exeter st., city, in a trial spin, in one hour, 23 minutes.

The time, faster by five minutes than the record figures for the corresponding part of the annual B. A. A. April 19 Marathon, was remarkable, for De Mar was attired in a black sweater and an old pair of long pants. Clad in his usual track suit and running his best, Clarence the Great might easily have bettered his time by some minutes.

De Mar strolled into the Hotel Lenox after his jaunt, smiling and fresh as the proverbial daisy, to reserve rooms for himself, his wife and child, for April 19. On that day, when De Mar races in the annual Patriot's Day Marathon of 26 miles, 385 yards, from Hopkinton to Boston, his wife and child will be waiting for him at the finish.

Today's workout indicates that De Mar is in his usual fine form. He has been training steadily at Keene, where he is a teacher of typography in the Keene Normal School.

Armour and Turnesa Tie in Golf Match

La Gorce Golf Course, Miami Beach, Fla., March 21 (AP)—Tommy Armour scored a 72 today to tie with Joe Turnesa with a leading 214 at the 54th hole of the $15,000 La Gorce open golf tournament. Walter Hagen, scoring a par 71 for today's round, was in next place with 215.

"Virgin Territory" Is Sought for Title Go

Little Rock, Ark., March 21 (AP)—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, said today he believes a site in "Virgin territory" would be the best for the forthcoming Schmeling-Stribling fight.

"Personally, I like Chicago," he declared, "but from a business standpoint, I believe Cleveland would be a good spot. I always believed in the Rickard notion that Virgin territory was best for a big shot' like this and Cleveland, with its new stadium and its desire for its first heavyweight championship bout seems ideal."

Ouimet Speaks at B. C. Frosh Smoker

An interesting and close range account of the golfing career of Bobby Jones was given by Francis Ouimet as the leading speaker of the freshman class smoker before a capacity turnout last night at Boston College. Ouimet related the highlights of his own friendship with Jones and how Bobby refused a $250,000 offer from the movies in 1928.

In the final game of the regular season, the Bruins will meet the Montreal Maroons tonight at the Boston Garden.

In the three games played between the Bruins and Maroons, the Roosmen have been on the winning end of two, losing but the other.

Both managers will shoot their full strength on to the ice in the final rehearsal for the championship play which starts next week and each club is strongly suspicious that their rivalry of 1930 may be renewed again this year in the Stanley Cup play. Art Ross of the Bruins believes Montreal is the team to watch.

The Maroons' team is considered the dark horse in the challenge round for the Stanley Cup. The Montreal lads play a two game goal series with the New York Rangers next week and if successful will oppose the winner of the Toronto-Chicago series.

Despite the loss of Hoolie Smith, whose recent injury has put him out for the season, Montreal is considered more formidable than at any other time this season. Ordinarily, a Maroon-Bruin scrap calls for terrific bodying, high feeling and bitter play.

Unless old feuds unexpectedly break out tonight, Boston hockey fans, however, should be treated to a game of great speed, superb stick handling and brilliant combination play.

Maroons Come Here With Full Strength

Maroons come here with full strength set go on to the New York tomorrow to rest for the series, which start there Tuesday night. The Maroons have some of the greatest players in hockey in their lineup, are well balanced and in Nelson Stewart and Babe Seibert have two first line stars who have played in some hectic battles against the Bruins.

Manager Art Ross of the Bruins' team will drive his players at full speed throughout the contest tonight. He wants the team to be at its peak against Les Canadiens next week and he figures that the best way to attain that is by the drive against Maroons as if the game was an objective clash. The Bruins had a stiff practice on Thursday and their combination plays were working better than in any recent game.

Bruins to Rest for Play-Off Series

Bruins will have a light workout tomorrow morning at the Garden and then will rest until they take the ice on Tuesday against Canadiens.

Maroons and Canadiens have caused wide spread comment throughout the hockey league by substitution of games of unbreakable glass for the old wire netting. The millionaires end of the Forum. It is claimed that this new glass will give the home team an advantage in Montreal.

Manager Art Ross of the Bruins made only the remark: "If there is any pain to be felt, let's hope Canadiens feel it after their series with the Bruins."

Names of Referees a Secret Till Game Time

Referees for the National League championship playoff between the Boston Bruins and Les Canadiens, which start Tuesday, March 24, at the Boston Garden, will be assigned by President Frank Calder of the league.

During the progress of the game, the ice will be cleared after every 20 minutes. This is a change in National League procedure, due much as in case of overtime the ice will be cleared at the end of the third period as well.

All games will played to a finish and if the contest runs longer than 20 minutes the ice will be cleared every 20 minutes of overtime.

West End House to Close Season Tonight

The West End House will close its home season tonight when it faces the Boston Y. M. H. A. five at their clubhouse on Blossom st. West End, this season, has enjoyed a very successful season for the West Enders who won 19 games and lost six.

This game will be the second of a two game series between these two institutions, the first game being won by the Y. M. H. A.

Bring 'Em Back Alive

By Frank Buck with Edward Anthony

With the aid of Ali (my own knowledge of the Malay dialect this fellow spoke proving inadequate) I learned I could save the birds for eight ounces of tobacco. The tobacco available in that part of the world comes in twisted sticks, three ounces to the stick.

I would have gladly given him three sticks, or nine ounces, but I was afraid he might decide there was something wrong with the tobacco—something of the sort having happened to me before—so I decided to give him exactly what he wanted. I sent Ali into the house for three sticks of tobacco. Then I took out an old pocket knife and proceeded to cut one of the sticks at the two-thirds mark (two and two-thirds sticks totalling the eight ounces he named as his price).

OFFERS BABY ELEPHANT

I handed him his tobacco and he handed me the birds. He was greatly pleased with his bargain, promptly spitting out his bete nut and biting off a mouthful of tobacco to take its place. Many Asiatics are more interested in tobacco as something to chew than they are in its smoking possibilities.

About ten yards off, he turned around and shouted, "Berapa ada kechil gajah" (how much would you give for a little elephant?)

I had ceased to think about my need for a midget pachyderm. Although I had not given up, the subject had slipped out of my consciousness. The press of other business involving specimens that were more available, was responsible.

Both Ali and I were excited when the subject was so unexpectedly reopened. We called the native back.

We asked him how big the elephant was. With his hand he indicated a height of about four feet. I told Ali that I was not resorting to his favorite method of registering disgust, wrinkled up his nose.

That was too big, we told him.

Whereupon the obliging soul started protesting that the animal he had in mind wasn't that big at all. It was only so big, (indicating a height of about two and a half feet which he gradually decreased until finally his hand was not more than ten inches from the ground).

I was so amused by this exaggeration that I started laughing. Ali was not ready to be as amused as I was, having his private opinion of natives that lied so outrageously, but he did decide that the occasion did not call for too much seriousness, for he actually stopped wrinkling up his nose when my laughter reached his ears, confining himself to spitting, at the ground, his disdain of the inferior fair-to-middling displeasure.

COVERED WITH HAIR

When, as I continued to sway, the native's hair who was still stooped over indicating with his hand a height of 10 inches, I continued to chuckle. Ali even smiled faintly.

I started questioning the native about his 10-inch elephant. Pressed for a description of the animal, he mentioned the fact that there was hair all over it. This had the effect of making us take the fellow seriously.

Regardless of the beast's exact measurements, if it was covered with hair it was bound to be a baby enough and could easily be under three feet. Another thing that encouraged me was the fact that in answer to my question he told me, with out hesitation, that the animal was a female. He had no way of telling that what I wanted was a female.

I decided to take a chance and investigate. The Batik's village it developed, was about 25 miles off. He had walked all that distance to dispose of his hornbills and his lizard.

After a journey of four hours we arrived at our destination. The native took us to a tapioca garden in back of the village headman's shack.

There, with a rope around his neck and looking terribly thin and emaciated, stood the smallest baby elephant I had ever seen. With the carpenter's eye I had taken with me I measured it, and found it to be just two inches under three feet at the shoulder, which is how elephants are measured. As my informant had told me, it was a baby little tot, and couldn't have been over ten or twelve days old.

WEAK AND WOBBLY

Weak and wobbly, the little babe is female, as the native had said; seemed to be starving herself with difficulty, her trembliness and starved appearance suggesting that the head man and his four partners, who owned the elephant jointly, had not had much success in feeding their captive. The task of getting food inside a baby elephant that has been suddenly taken away from its mother usually presents real difficulties.

I said to the headman: "What good is your elephant? She's going to die of starvation." He have given the creature two more days to settle the difficulties that prevailed when I found her.

I was mistaken, the headman insisted. The animal was in excellent condition—the finest, strongest, best nourished baby elephant he had ever seen. The fellow evidently thought I was a greenhorn. Never had I seen a baby animal in worse shape.

The more the headman spoke the worse his story got. An elephant as young as the one that stood tottering before us doesn't know what its trunk is for. It is so much loose flesh simply dangling from its head. What it has a tough time getting it out of the way when it sucks its mother.

"All right," I said. "Let's see you feed her." The native tried to keep from swallowing, giving in after a few seconds of gurgling. A second banana was prepared and the operation was repeated, this time the task proving less difficult. The third and last three tubes of gruel that session.

An hour later I put the elephantine girl to bed, covering her up with some old gunny sacks. The following morning there was a definite improvement in her condition, some of the wobbliness having disappeared. We gave her her breakfast, repeating the performance with the tubs. This time it was unnecessary to prop her up.

A little later in the morning we put her on a bullock cart and took her back to Domji, from where she was to travel, along with my other specimens, to Singapore. We had no trouble feeding her, and by noon the bamboo feeding tube working perfectly.

PRICE SET AT $2000

As soon as I reached Singapore I wired to Mr. Carter, one of the partners, that I had a female baby elephant under three feet, which he could have for $2000, subject to prompt acceptance.

I installed the midget pachyderm in my compound, and, within a week after her arrival there, she had developed so completely an interest in food that if I took my little bamboo tube she would follow me all over the lot. By the time I was ready to return to America she was in splendid condition, full of life, alert, and a wee bit mischievous. A loveable animal, she was a great favorite on board ship, the crew taking a particular fancy to her.

She was an amusing sight when she began to learn to use her trunk. She developed a sudden consciousness of the uses to which this part of her, till now a dangling impediment, could be put. Gaining control of it, she would swing it in all directions, delighted with the discovery that this was something she could make do her bidding, like her legs.

When I arrived in San Francisco, the dealer who had ordered this baby elephant was waiting for me on the dock. He was delighted with his acquisition, the little lady from Sumatra being exactly what he wanted. I turned her over to him together with three of my boa constrictor tubes, instructing him how to use them.

BECOMES MOVIE QUEEN

Not long afterwards, she became a movie queen, under the name of Baby Boo. Hollywood gave her this sobriquet in Los Angeles and it stuck.

One day Baby Boo was being filmed in a picture in which Al St. John was the featured player. To create a desired effect, it was necessary for the camera to catch the little elephant on the run. Baby Boo was not in the mood for running. Coaxing availed nothing. Similar she didn't get the idea or she had decided that she didn't want to run, as she once decided that she didn't want to eat.

The cameraman was frantic. The director was in a frenzy of despair. Both appealed to the animal's keeper. Didn't he learn something that could be done?

The keeper said he knew of one what he could do. When Baby Boo had been turned over to him, with her cane, a magic wand that had proven helpful more than once in handling her; one of my bamboo tubes which the keeper always carried with him.

Getting out of range of the camera, he took out the tube and called to the balking elephant. She caught sight of the bamboo and, as she did, she started to run. Baby Boo making a hurried bee-line after him. Once more the tube had proved a magic wand that had proven helpful more than once in handling her; one of my bamboo tubes which the keeper always carried with him.

The cameraman got what he wanted.

'PRO' CHARGES MADE AGAINST N. Y. STARS

Capt. Jerry Nemecek, also leader of the 1930 N. Y. U. football team, Louis Werner, Sam Siegel, Monty Banks and Abe Teich were specifically accused of having accepted money for a game played in Pasale on the evening of March 8.

Nemecek, over in Brooklyn, Ray Lynch, director of Athletics at St. John's, proceeded to investigate charges that the championship Eastern quintet of Capt. Max Posnack, Mac Kinghorn, Abe Shuckman, "Rip" Geerson and Matty Begovich had competed professionally in the Jersey city area.

All the men involved were immediately barred from sports activities, the St. John's nine losing Begovich, pitcher; Kinghorn, catcher, and Posnack, first baseman, and major league prospect, as the allegations were looked into.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

I have pointed out that in the first part of your back swing a highly important thing to keep your left arm close to you as it moves across. This close-in position of the left arm occurs again in your forward swing from the top of the back swing, and as we have been outlining, pull gradually forward in such manner as to make your left arm move downward directly toward your right hip. You find yourself gripping firmly with the left hand as you start the forward swing. Move directly downward with the arms, and maintain your grip on the ground with your right foot as you feel yourself as swinging directly across the ball from inside out. If you will let your club swing in there, in that directional manner, without unduly hurrying or pressing it, the ball will nearly be dispatched. Try these things in easy stages until you get this action grooved into your muscles. And remember that there's nothing like taking your time in golf.

AT THE LISTENING POST

INNOVATION is the trend in radio because it is the way with human nature and tastes of the public. Sport lovers who listen to The Sports Reporter nightly (WBZ at 6 and 11) heard both Battling Battalino, featherweight champ, and Andy Callahan yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Both boxers weighed in before the microphone, discussed the bout in which they took part last night, then submitted to an interview by "Bill" Williams, at the Statler studios. There's another new and novel . . .

• • •

THIS IS THE FIRST day of spring, tra-la. Our fancy turns to thoughts of those lighter caresses with which the air will soon tinge things in general. Radio comes in for its treatment and programs in turn are being changed to suit from now on. Balmy, as it were.

• • •

• • •

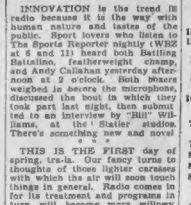
• • •



KARYL NORMAN, famous along with Julian Eltinge for female impersonation, will tell you just why he selected his unusual line of stage work. He is making ready for the B. K. S. Saturday Night Club broadcast this evening (WBZ 10:45) during which period he is featured.

• • •

A FORTUNE teller once told R. L. Ripley that fame and fortune would soon be his. He wouldn't believe it and laughed for a long time afterward. Believe it or not.

• • •

TECHNICAL TAFFY: Ultra-Hetrodyne Selectivity enhanced by a Dynamic Inhibitor, affording meticulous dissemination of kilocycles at high frequencies. Yes, really.

• • •

WHO IS THERE? that will help us to change the name of this column? Official announcement is hereby made that we have no idea right now. It occurs that perhaps some snappy suggestions might be considered and, if so, we'll arrange to present a little gift to the best one that comes along. Everyone is privileged to send in what they think would be a good heading for our "colyum." Don't be bashful.

Features on Air

NOT CONTENT WITH describing chicken fights, pogo tilts and tennis matches, the radio moguls have turned now to word-picturing a bowling tournament. Over WNAC at 9:30 tonight the finals of the American Bowling championship will be described to listeners.

RECOMMENDED FOR TOMORROW: Let's Do It" from the vocal cords of Irene Bordoni or WNAC at 9 p. m., The "human symphony," the Kedroff quartet, through WEEI at 9:15 p. m., Vallee's program, and the "Federal Board for Vocational Education, on the Radio Forum, over WNAC at 8:30 tonight. Franks has served on the board for ten years, having been appointed successively by Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

• • •

WHEN THE Federal Radio Commission ordered the stations that 10 per cent of the programs should be educational, CBS heaved a sigh. Columbia devotes 12.3 per cent to uplifting features and, as soon as some of the shows like Chevalier and Ted Lewis are heard each week, yet Bostonians will be able to get them . . . Linus Travers adds another accomplishment to his long list of talents. He's Boston airport yes'y's . . . A local station will soon shut down for a time to make room for one of a more advantageous point . . . In the studios a finger planted firmly against the ear is a signal that the program is running according to schedule. Hands on the top mean that it is behind time; down means that it is ahead. Wild hand waving in circles means "slow down" and hands bowed with palms down means "play softer. But now these time worn signals slowly are being supplied by the telautograph machine which transmits the message mechanically . . . Ted Lewis opens tonight in Boston this week to look over the local economic situation.—

THE SECOND act of the Copley Theater thriller, "The Last Hour," will be heard on WEEI at 11:25 tomorrow night. In the cast of this blood curdler are George Coulouris, Carolyn Humphreys, Richard Whorf, David Baker, Jack Storey, Robert Henderson and John Kneil.

COOK-COOS

A proposal has been laid before the committee on student affairs of the University of Michigan that the alumni take the responsibility for stopping drinking in fraternity houses.

The idea has its points, but the main difficulty will be finding alumni who are still capable of responsibility at that stage of the evening.
